Camouflage Blocks Use Of Beaches

BY T. A. MYERS

An almost tangible aura of privacy hangs over many of the beach-access roads in outlying areas of Greater Victoria.

This feeling, fostered by beach-front property owners and tacitly approved by municipal authorities, is an effective ban to free public use of one of this area's best recreational assets, its miles of sea beaches.

These beaches are public property. The law requires that they be made accessible by public highways at frequent intervals.

Almost nowhere in the outlying regions does the number of access roads meet the legal requirements. And where roads do exist they are generally allowed—or perhaps designed—to look exactly like dozens of residential roads and private driveways.

The result is that the motorist can't tell, when he drives down a side road, whether he will arrive at the water or merely bumble into someone's back yard.

CHANCES SLIM

If he should, by chance, happen onto a public road, his chances are slim that he will be able to drive right to the water.

Most of these roads are improved only as far as the boundaries of private properties on the waterfront. Beyond that point, in many cases, the right-of-way is clogged by impenetrable brush.

In some cases a trail has been cleared through the jungle. Even here the pedestrian has no way of knowing the trail is a public thoroughfare. Often it appears to be a private path or private land.

In many places this illusion is heightened by forbidding "Private Property" signs on every hand. These signs are carefully within the boundaries of the private lands that flank the right-of-way, but they certainly give the impression that the entire waterfrontage, including the narrow road allowance, is closed to the public.

USE DISCOURAGED

Thus, even where a route has been cleared to the beach, the public is discouraged from using it. The fear of invading someone's privacy is as effective a roadblock as a log barrier.

The owners of waterfront homes can't be blamed for putting up "No trespassing" signs. They naturally want to protect their lands from invasion by strangers, and they have a perfect right to do so.

Many of them also resent any invasion of the beaches which they have come to regard as their private preserves. Therefore they are content to see the beach-access roads remain unmarked and camouflaged.

PUBLIC CHEATED

As long as this situation exists, the public is being cheated of the use of a number of pleasant sunbathing and picnic sites.

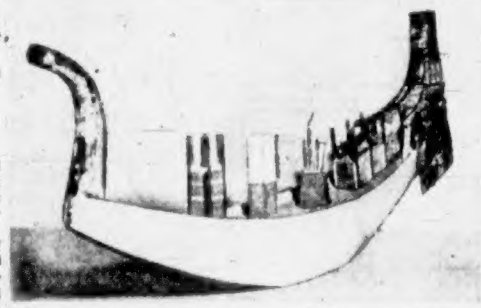
Municipal authorities have done little to encourage the public to use these beaches, perhaps for fear of offending the waterfront property owners who, in Saanich, at least, are the municipality's biggest taxpayers.

Public pressure is needed to prod the municipalities into opening up the lost beaches.

Pyramid Yields Priceless 'Sun Boats'

Two "sun boats" or "death ships" and the untouched tomb of an Egyptian nobleman have recently been uncovered beside the Great Pyramid of Cheops, seen above. Excavations director Kamal el Malakh yesterday announced the discovery of the tomb, thought to be 3,500 years old, while exploring along the wall of the underground chamber in which the boats were sealed. He said the tomb may contain the nobleman's mummified body and pottery containers holding his earthly possessions.

Discovery of the sun boats, considered the most important find since the opening of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, was made by accident during the digging of this causeway, part of a tourist road around the Great Pyramid. The workmen uncovered what appeared to be a very wide limestone wall, but which later proved to be the top of a long, sealed chamber housing the boats.



The two boats, built to carry the Pharaoh Cheops to heaven more than 5,000 years ago, have not yet been fully inspected, but oars, ropes, linen and other cloth aboard are believed still in perfect condition. This model, less than four feet long, represents a craft similar to the two 165-foot boats. The ancient Egyptians believed their souls would sail a course set by the sun, passing through 24 gates representing each hour of the day and night. The actual boats will not be brought out until the end of the current religious holiday in Egypt.

Dr. Oppenheimer Cleared as 'Loyal' But Still Barred

WASHINGTON (UP) — A special atomic security board recommended two to one Tuesday that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer be denied access to atomic secrets on grounds of "security" and his "conduct" in the hydrogen bomb program.

The three-man board, headed by North Carolina University President Gordon Gray, found unanimously that the famed atomic scientist, who played a leading role in developing the U.S. atomic bomb, is a "loyal citizen" and "discreet" in handling secrets.

But a two-man majority, composed of Gray and Thomas A. Morgan, New York industrialist, said Oppenheimer showed a "serious disregard" for security requirements, susceptibility to influence," "disturbing . . . conduct" in the hydrogen bomb program and lack of candor in testimony before the board.

NOT FINAL

The board's recommendation against restoring Oppenheimer's suspended clearance to atomic secrets is not final. It will be sent to the five-member atomic energy commission for final decision, along with the recommendation of AEC general manager K. D. Nichols.

Lloyd K. Garrison, Oppenheimer's lawyer, expressed astonishment that the board could find Oppenheimer loyal and yet decide he should be barred from atomic secrets. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D, N. Mex.), a member of the congressional atomic committee, also found this inconsistent.

VIGOROUS DISSENT

W. V. Evans, scientist member of the special board which held lengthy secret hearings, dissented vigorously from the recommendation that Oppenheimer be barred from future access to government secrets — a step that would mean an end to his former role of government consultant on atomic energy.

"I personally think that our failure to clear Dr. Oppenheimer will be a black mark on the escutcheon of our country," Evans said. He also expressed concern about the effect of an "improper decision" on the nation's scientific development.

PAST RECORD

Oppenheimer's case was reopened by Strauss shortly after he became AEC chairman last July. Oppenheimer, known as "Mr. Atom," headed the wartime Los Alamos project which made the first A-bomb. He was cleared for the job despite a record of past Communist associations.

The new charges, of which Oppenheimer was advised last December 23, were based on two main counts—past close associations with Communists, and a claim that he delayed work on the hydrogen bomb projects.

Oppenheimer admitted his Communistic associations but said he never was a party member. He said he raised doubts about building the H-bomb for scientific, moral and political reasons, but did not delay its production when then-president Truman ordered it built.

In its findings Tuesday the board majority ruled out claims that Oppenheimer urged other scientists not to participate in the H-bomb program, or took active steps to discourage its development.

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who led U.S. development of the atomic and hydrogen bomb but is now barred from U.S. atomic information, is shown explaining aspects of one of the explosions he made possible.

Reds Cut Hanoi Rail Link

HANOI (UP)Communist rebels have seized their first foothold along the Hanoi-Haiphong railroad and highway which bring American supplies inland from the main port of northern Indo-China, the high command has disclosed.

Red raiders seized a French Union outpost along the parallel lines only nine miles east of Hanoi. "Serious" French losses were acknowledged in the official announcement.

A supply train was blown up by a radio-controlled rebel mine three miles to the west about the time the Communist Viet Minh troops stormed the outpost.

Military sources said the loss of the outpost had not impeded traffic seriously so far. They hinted that it might do so if the Reds tried to build it up into a long-term roadblock.

The Communists long have hacked at the 58-mile lifeline of the French war effort in Indo-China, but only in hit-run raids or sabotage without trying to establish a foothold.

French, Reds To Talk

GENEVA (UP) — French and Communist Viet Minh military officials agreed Tuesday to open the Indo-China ceasefire talks today.

The representatives of the two high commands will meet at 3 p.m. (7 a.m., PDT), to start mapping an armistice. At the same time the nine-nation Indo-China peace conference, after a 24-hour recess, will sit to resume debate on how to control the armistice.

The agreement was reached at a meeting of Col. Michael De Brebisson, chief French military adviser to the ministry of Associated States of Indo-China, and Col. Ha Van Lau, chief Viet Minh military adviser.

Police Ground Ottawa Flight

MONTREAL (UP)—Police have grounded a 27-year-old man found running up and down the main runway at Malton Airport, flapping his arms for a take-off.

The man, whose name was withheld, explained to police that he was trying to take off for Ottawa to discuss the world situation with Prime Minister St. Laurent.

He would use more conventional craft, the man said, but Trans-Canada Air Lines refused to give him passage.

Police carted the birdman to Cooksville jail and administered a large dose of sedative. He was still asleep when relatives came and claimed him.

Loyal Students Weep

Visa Puts Crimp In Hard-Won Trip

BY ALEC MERRIMAN

Forty American high school students, who worked for years to earn money for a Canadian holiday, were prepared to turn back yesterday when immigration authorities here refused to admit one of their party, a German exchange student whose visa had just expired.

Elizabeth von Treuenfels, 19, wept yesterday on board the Chinook when she was told she couldn't enter Canada and share the Vancouver Island holiday with her classmates.

Her friends wept with her and wanted to go back to Port Angeles with her and forego the vacation.

But Elizabeth wouldn't stand for that. She went back to Port Angeles alone, and a customs officer said he would look after her there.

Jerry Metcalfe, principal of their Florence, Ore., school and head of the party, assured the remaining students he would try to arrange for Elizabeth to enter Canada today.

Meanwhile, they are staying in Victoria rather than going on to Yellow Point, near Ladysmith, where they planned to spend the first few days of their holiday.

A wire has been sent to immigration authorities in Washington, D.C., requesting renewal of Elizabeth's visa.

"We hope she will be able to join us tomorrow (Wednesday)," Mr. Metcalfe said last night.

Elizabeth is a German exchange student sponsored at Saanich High School in Florence by the National Grange organization.

Mr. Metcalfe yesterday phoned the State Grange Master in Seattle, who immediately got in touch with Washington, D.C. to try to get a visa for Elizabeth.

"The other students are disturbed," Mr. Metcalfe said. "She was well liked and has been at our school for a year."

He has been bringing his high school graduating class on a holiday to the Island every year for four years.

"They start in their freshman class to earn money as a class for the vacation," he said. "When they graduate the money is used for a holiday on Vancouver Island. We usually go to Yellow Point."

"The Canadian immigration officers were wonderful," he said. "They'd have let her in, but the U.S. immigration wouldn't let her come back because her visa had expired."

Elizabeth didn't realize when she boarded the Chinook at Port Angeles that her visa had expired one day before. Her passport is good until October, when she will return to Germany.

Strike Verdict Tuesday

A general meeting of the civic outside workers' union Tuesday will decide if and when they will strike here.

Union president Cecil Holt said last night he could not state what matters were discussed in an executive meeting.

Final decisions will be made by the membership, he said.

The workers recently cast a vote overwhelmingly in favor of strike action to back wage demands averaging about 17 cents an hour.

Ottawa Move Queried

Mountie Fears Jump In Dope Smuggling

VANCOUVER (CP)—A high-ranking RCMP officer predicted here Tuesday night that a government decision to ban all legal imports of heroin will result in an intensification of narcotics smuggling into Vancouver.

Increases in the black market price of drugs will also result, said the official, who asked to be unnamed.

Announcement of the ban was made in the Commons Tuesday by Health Minister Martin.

The RCMP official admitted, however, that the move will "undoubtedly act as a further deterrent to the illegal acquisition or distribution of narcotics in B.C."

Meanwhile, a Vancouver doctor who is heading a committee here in a research campaign to try to formulate a corrective program for addicts, said it would be very difficult to measure the effectiveness of the ban.

Dr. George H. Stevenson said only a small percentage of narcotics are obtained through thefts from drug stores and doctors' supplies.

"But it is a step in the right direction . . ."

Mr. Martin's announcement said all legal imports of heroin would be cut off after next January 1. At the same time the Commons passed legislation to double the maximum penalty for illegal narcotic peddlers to 14 from seven years.

A doctor-MP said of the heroin ban that doctors could get along without that drug, using others in its place as a medicine.

Cleric's Wife Better

Mrs. H. E. Sexton, wife of the Anglican Archbishop of Columbia, is convalescing in England after an attack of pneumonia.

She became ill two days after she and Archbishop Sexton sailed from Quebec aboard the liner Franconia.

When the ship docked at Liverpool Monday she was well enough to leave it in a wheelchair and accompany her husband to London.

"My wife is still very weak," the archbishop said. "I have made arrangements for her to convalesce at Bognor Regis."

Cigarette Price Rise Announced

The price of popular brand cigarettes in all retail outlets, except chain stores and possibly a few other exceptions, will be 33 cents plus two cents tax as of today.

H. A. Welch, proprietor of two news vending and tobacconist stands, spoke for the trade which met last night when he said:

"We have made our decision. Our prices are 33 cents for 20 from now on, plus tax."

Packages of 25 will sell at 41 plus two cents.

Defended by Senator

Lawyer Acquitted In Obstruction Case

(Special to The Colonist)

DUNCAN — North Vancouver's prosecutor was acquitted on a charge of obstructing the course of justice following a marathon County Court hearing here yesterday.

Ronald McMillan Howard caused a sensation here last February when he gained the acquittal of his client, charged with bootlegging, by getting police to identify the accused man's brother as the man they bought a bottle of whisky from.

Mr. Howard's victory was short-lived. His client, Douglas John Nelson, was charged again and convicted, and the lawyer was charged with obstructing justice.

"BENEFIT OF DOUBT"

In dismissing the case against Mr. Howard, Judge H. Sullivan of New Westminster said that an accused person was entitled to the benefit of any reasonable doubt.

Yesterday's hearing in a packed courtroom lasted from 10.30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Defending Mr. Howard was Senator J. W. de B. Farris, who told the court he was compelled to keep a close schedule, as he was going to England to appear before the Privy Council.

In the February trial the court was told that Mr. Howard was representing Douglas John Nelson, who was pleading not guilty. There was a dispute with the court about proceeding without Nelson present.

Crown witnesses said yesterday that Mr. Howard had assured the court that Douglas Nelson would be in court later.

The case proceeded and Nelson's brother, Leslie, came into court and seated himself at the rear of the room with Douglas Nelson's wife. He wore horn-rimmed glasses, carried a taxi driver's cap, and allegedly impersonated Douglas Nelson.

Two police officers identified Leslie as the man from whom they had bought the bottle.

S. S. Cunliffe, QC, appearing for the Crown, yesterday, argued that it was Howard's duty as an officer of the court to inform the magistrate, Col. A. C. Sutton, that the man represented as the accused was merely a spectator.

Judge Sullivan ruled that the man was perfectly entitled to come into the court dressed as he was and to take his place in the spectators' seats.

NOT ON STAND

Howard did not take the stand yesterday, and this was noted by Mr. Cunliffe.

"Are you arguing that because Mr. Howard did not take the stand in his defense, I am to find him guilty?" asked the judge.

Mr. Cunliffe assured him that this was not his point at all.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Some people are as prickly as hedgehogs, or sea urchins. Their spikes are the mannerisms and emotional tricks that they use to defend themselves against the world.

They look upon everyone who approaches as an attacker. The sound of a footstep makes them ruffle their quills to the ready.

"Fine day," an innocent acquaintance remarks, throwing out a polite banality in passing.

"Do you really think so?" says the prickly person, narrowing the eyes and staring the acquaintance up and down. "Why?"

Taken aback, the acquaintance fumbles in his mental storehouse for reasons, and is forced under that unblinking gaze to describe the warm air mass which is hovering above the city at the moment, and explain that in his opinion, high temperatures give a sense of well-being.

The prickly person has one aim in life: to make others feel ill at ease, so that they will let him alone. In this he is the exact opposite of the oily person, who tries to put others at ease until he can devour them. But the prickly person seeks to repel others and protect himself.

The prickly person often uses the silent, critical stare. He waits, staring. If he waits long enough, the other person will walk away, which is fine with him, or say something. Whichever happens, the prickly person just keeps staring.

An opponent who remains and tries to keep up the conversation, is likely to become flustered and make some foolish remark. And that, again, is just what the prickly person wants.

The prickly person seldom commits himself. If he is forced to break the silence, he avoids at all costs giving out any information or expressing any views.

Occasionally he will leap in and correct another person's utterance, or quibble over the shade of meaning of a word. But he dodges at once behind his spiky shell.

Although the prickly person seldom contributes anything of importance to the conversation, the twist of his mouth and the sardonic look of his eye hint at a scale of values so complex and learning so profound that he would be wasting his time telling the other person about them.

The prickly person is unpleasant to know, and other people tend to stay away from him. As a result, he grows even longer and sharper spikes.

Sad to say, he may not even be conscious of his condition. In extreme cases, a prickly person may go through life denouncing others for exactly the same kind of behavior.

CHAPTER VII

First Report of Dr. Watson

From this point onward I will follow the course of events by transcribing my own letters to Sherlock Holmes which lie before me on the table.

Baskerville Hall, October 13th

My dear Holmes:

My previous letters and telegrams have kept you pretty well up-to-date as to all that has occurred in this most Godforsaken corner of the world. The longer one stays here the more does the spirit of the moor sink into one's soul, its vastness, and also it grim charm. When you are once out upon its bosom you have left all traces of modern England behind you, but, on the other hand, you are conscious everywhere of the homes and the work of prehistoric people. On all sides of you as you walk are the houses of these forgotten folk; with their graves and the huge monoliths which are supposed to have marked their temples. If you were to see a skin-clad, hairy [illegible] door, fitting a flint-tipped arrow on to the string of his bow, you would feel that this presence there was more natural than your own.

If you have not had any report within the last few days it is because until today there was nothing of importance to relate. Then a very surprising circumstances occurred; but, first, I must keep you in touch with other factors in the situation.

One is the escaped convict upon the moor. There is strong reason now to believe that he has got away, which is a considerable relief to the lonely householders of this district. A fortnight has passed since his flight, during which he has not been seen and nothing has been heard of him.

We are four able-bodied men in this household, so that we could take care of ourselves, but I confess that I have uneasy moments when I think of the Stapletons. They live miles from any help. There are one maid, an old manservant, the sister, and the brother, the latter not a very strong man. Both Sir Henry and I were concerned at their situation, and it was suggested that Perkins the groom should go over to sleep there, but Stapleton would not hear of it.

Our friend, the baronet, begins to display a considerable interest in our fair neighbor. It is not to be wondered at, for she is very fascinating. There is something tropical and exotic about her which forms a singular contrast to her unemotional brother. Yet he also gives the idea of hidden fires. He has certainly a very marked influence over her, for I have seen her continually glance at him as she talked as if seeking approbation for what she said.

Stapleton came to call upon Baskerville on that first day, and the very next morning he took us both to show us the spot where the legend of the wicked Hugo is supposed to have had its origin. It was an excursion of some miles across the moor to a place which is so dismal that it might have suggested the hound story. Sir Henry was much interested and asked Stapleton more than once whether he did really believe in the supernatural. Stapleton was guarded in his replies. He told us of similar cases where families had suffered from some evil influence.

On our way back we stayed for lunch at Merripit House and it was there that Sir Henry made the acquaintance of Miss Stapleton. From the first moment that he saw her he appeared to be strongly attracted by her, and I am much mistaken if the feeling was not mutual. He referred to her again and again on our walk home. They dine here tonight. One would imagine that such a match would be very welcome to Stapleton, and yet I have more than once caught a look of the strongest disapprobation in his face when the baronet has been paying some attention to his sister.

By the way, your instructions never to allow Sir Henry to go out alone will become much more onerous if a love affair be added to our difficulties.

Group Insurance Plan Gets Poor Response

If Victoria's small merchants don't "wake up" they will lose out on one of their biggest bargains, Tom Denny, chairman of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce group insurance committee said yesterday.

He was referring to the chamber-sponsored group insurance plan which offers small merchants, with from three to 24 employees, insurance coverage for themselves and staff covering life, accident, and Medical Services Association benefits.

The plan has been called the best obtainable in Canada and is the only one to offer MSA benefits to groups of fewer than 10.

More than 200 small business firms are eligible for coverage, but in six weeks of active campaigning only 40 have responded.

It was hoped to have the plan in operation in May, or by June 1 at the latest, but at an emergency meeting Monday the plan was delayed for another month.

Quota of firms required to participate has been dropped from 150 to 65.

"We have given them another month and if we don't get our quota by then the plan is out," Mr. Denny said.

Patrols To Get Service Awards

Ten Victoria school children who have served four years and more as Junior Safety Patrol members will be given special awards at ceremonies at 16 city schools starting today.

Pins representing one, two and three years' service with the patrol will also be given to 392 pupils.

The special award is in the form of a certificate, signed by the school principal, the mayor, the police chief, the head of the Kiwanis safety patrol committee and Const. Ian Duncan, patrol director.

Bronze, silver, and gold pins are awarded for one, two, and three years' service respectively. Gold pins will go to 22 members, while 101 children will receive silver awards and 269 the bronze pin.

FROM ALDERMAN

The presentations will be made in front of the assembled students. Ald. Frank Mullmer will hand over the awards at the first ceremony at 9 a.m. today at S. J. Willis Junior High.

Among others scheduled to make the presentations are Police Chief John Blackstock and Deputy Chief Harry Mercer.

Dates for ceremonies at district schools will be announced later. This is the Victoria schedule:

S. J. Willis, today; St. Margaret's, Thursday; Oaklands, Friday; St. Louis College, Monday; Victoria West, Jun. 16; Sir James Douglas, June 16; Burnside, June 17; South Park, June 18; Central Junior High, June 18; Quadra, June 21; St. Ann's Academy, June 22; Margaret Jenkins, June 23; Lampson Street, June 24; George Jay, June 24; North Ward, June 24, and Malvern, June 26.

One-sixth of the people of the world live in India.

Victorians Win Show Ribbons On Mainland

Six ribbons were carried back here yesterday by four Victoria girls who participated in the Vancouver Pony Club show on the Mainland this week end.

Jo Ann Aubel, Sheila Olson, Judy Mangin and Vivian Andrews took three firsts, a second and two thirds in the show. Miss Aubel, riding Sailor, won a first in the road hack event for horses owned by riding academies.

Sailor is from the Victoria Riding Academy.

Riding her own horse, Sea Foam, Miss Olson captured first prize for showing the best privately-owned horse.

The quartet together won the team riding event.

Miss Mangin came second in the open jumping contest, riding Wallaby from Victoria Riding Academy stables. A third prize was won by Miss Olson's Sea Foam for the best-conditioned horse.

Don't Neglect Broad Beans

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Because broad beans grow so stoutly and vigorously with an absolute minimum of attention it is a temptation to neglect them while other crops are nursed and babied along. A few little attentions given the plants at the right time, though, makes a surprising difference in the quantity and quality of the beans harvested, and will keep the plants in bearing long after the neglected orphans have packed up and quit.

CUT OFF HEADS

It is best to cut off the heads of the plants about the time when four clusters of flowers have set and are beginning to form pods. This not only helps the pods to swell, but it takes the succulent growing tips out of circulation just about the time when the blackfly becomes active.

Blackfly is the worst pest of the broad bean, and they congregate in their thousands on the tips of the plants. When the tips are removed, they don't stay and attack the rest of the plant, but move on to some of their other favorite foods, such as nasturtiums and the young shoots of the cherry tree. If the fly attacks before it is time to behead the plants, they can be controlled with derris dust, nicotine, or the new and very effective insecticide, Malathion. The tops can be used as boiled greens, and are quite a delicacy, but be sure to wash them well if they have been sprayed.

SUCKERS EMERGE

If you look over your broad beans from time to time, you'll often see suckers emerging from around the base of the plant, much the same way that suckers appear on corn. The broad bean suckers, though, only sap the strength out of the main stem without contributing anything worthwhile to the crop, so they should be rubbed off as fast as they appear, keeping the plants confined to one stem. Try to get the suckers removed while they are still very small, as the larger they are, the more their removal resembles a major surgical operation, with its attendant shock.

Another helpful attention is regular feeding to help the pods to swell. The feeding program is best started when the first pods are two inches long, and the food they appreciate at this stage is superphosphate. Give them a level tablespoonful in a gallon of water per yard of row, and repeat every ten days.

HARD TO DISSOLVE

Superphosphate is rather difficult to dissolve in water in the ordinary way, but if you cream it first in a bowl with a little warm water, using the back of a spoon, you'll find you can get a pretty even suspension in the watering can, although you may have to stir it from time to time.

Broad beans benefit even more than most plants from a heavy mulch of lawn mowings, straw or other litter around their rooting area. Like all the bean family, they haven't many roots, and what they have are near the surface. A mulch provides the cool, moist conditions which keep these roots operating at maximum efficiency.

Working 'Bee' Set for Camp

Union carpenters, roofers and painters will work this week end putting the finishing touches on staff quarters and cabins at the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp.

The carpenters built the quarters. All tradesmen are giving their labor.

First camp of the season will be a family camp, June 25 to July 3, officials of the Family and Children's Service announced. Applicants may telephone 2-5121.

Series Spurs Milk Sales

Lelord Kordel's "Eat and Grow Younger" series in The Colonist was credited last night with a recent increase in the consumption of milk on Vancouver Island.

J. B. Tisdalle, Saanich M.L.A. told a Social Credit meeting he thought Kordel's nutrition articles had something to do with the increase. He gave some credit to a joint advertising campaign by the government, milk producers and milk distributors.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

How big is a Profit?

A lot less than most people think!

The only quarrel most people have with profits is ... they think they are too big ...

But how big is too big? To find out, survey people rapped on doors right across Canada.

Most Canadians think companies like Imperial make 29¢ on each dollar of sales.

Most of them think such companies are entitled to make about half that... 15½¢ on the sales dollar.

Imperial's profit in 1953 was actually less than 8¢... less than a third of what most people thought we made.

A bill to set up federal-provincial allowances for the totally and permanently disabled won general approval from spokesmen for all Opposition parties in the Commons at Ottawa Tuesday, but some specific sections of the bill were criticized. The bill would provide for maximum $40-a-month allowances between the ages of 18 and 65, when old-age pensions begin. Payments are on a 50-50 federal-provincial basis.

Vermont Senator Attacks McCarthy

(From UP and AP)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R, Vt.) said Tuesday that senate investigators have not dug into the "real heart of the mystery—the personal relationships" between Senator Joseph McCarthy and his aides.

McCarthy, who said he did not know whether Flanders' attack stemmed from "viciousness or senility" promptly demanded the Vermonter be called to testify in the army-McCarthy hearings. He said Flanders should give any information he may have under oath.

Flanders also accused McCarthy of splitting the nation, the GOP and the Catholic Church. He said the Wisconsin Republican "could not have done a better job" for the Communists if he had been in their pay. He termed McCarthy a real life "Dennis the menace."

McCarthy struck back during one of his questioning periods in the televised hearing on his row with the army. He said he has been patient with Flanders, who had attacked him previously, and had regarded him as "a nice, kindly old gentleman."

At the hearings, the army Tuesday questioned the honesty of an exhibit of documents introduced by Senator McCarthy.

McCarthy, denounced the challenge as "dishonest and proposed that all principles in the dispute submit to lie detector tests.

Army counsel Joseph N. Welch voiced "deepest suspicions about the genuineness" of 11 memoranda submitted as the work of McCarthy aides for Schine.

Welch asked that an independent expert on documents be called in to pass on these memos, which Cohn said were dictated by himself and Carr at various times between last October and March 11.

The memos recited what the McCarthy camp terms improper attempts by the army to use Pte. G. David Schine as a hostage to force the McCarthy investigating sub-committee to call off its probe of alleged Communists in the army.

Although Welch did not say so, he evidently was attempting to show that the documents were not "spot memos" dictated at the time of the alleged improper army actions, but were prepared in a bunch after the army accused McCarthy and aides of pressure tactics to obtain preferential treatment for Schine.

City Students Take Eight Scholarships

Eight of 13 scholarships won by Vancouver Island students at University of British Columbia were taken by Victoria students. A ninth winner studied here.

The scholarships and student aids were among 190 valued at $30,000.

Lyle Purmal Robertsan, 1308 Carnsew, receives two awards, valued at $775.

Geoffrey Robert Conway, 937 Bank Street, received a $300 scholarship for high standing and aptitude in the engineering manufacturing and finance fields.

Sheila M. Carstens, Victoria College, has been awarded a B.C. Electric Proficiency Scholarship valued at $200.

Power Source Possibility Nears Survey

A possible new hydro source for B.C.'s power-hungry interior will be surveyed this week by a seven-man B.C. Power Commission crew.

The survey will cover the Helmcken Falls area of the Murtle River, a tributary of the Clearwater, about 90 miles north of Kamloops.

Officials say it is too early to tell exactly what the survey will produce but it is thought a power dam at the Helmcken Falls site would have a potential power output of from 70,000 to 100,000 horsepower.

The survey will take most of the summer. The commission has been looking for an additional power source to feed the Kamloops-North Okanagan transmission system now served by Whatshan hydro system.

Surplus Forecast If Oil, Gas Found

British Columbia will be able to liquidate its debt and create a surplus if oil and gas are found here in commercial quantities, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks told a Social Credit meeting in the St. Martin's Hall, Obed Avenue, last night.

"If we get our natural resources act working the same as Alberta's act, we will be able to do the same as Alberta has done," he said.

One member of the audience expressed concern that the two per cent of the sales tax designated for the hospitals would not be sufficient.

"The government has no direct control over the hospitals, but should the hospital costs get out of line it would be a serious problem that the government would have to face up to at that time," Mr. Wicks said.

He indicated that a new apprenticeship program would soon be considered by the government.

He said that if weaknesses are found in the new Labor Relations Act "your government will change and strengthen the act."

The extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into North Vancouver would help meet the abnormal unemployment in the province at this time, he said.

J. B. Tisdalle, MLA for Saanich, commented on the defeat on Saturday of the school building loan by-law of School District 63.

"The voters recognize the need of facilities, but less of the over-abundance of de luxe features are needed," he claimed.

Mr. Tisdalle hit at the teaching of physical training in the schools.

"I do not believe teachers should waste their time teaching hops, skips and jumps and certain activities that go under the name of PT," he said. "They should be busy teaching the elementary and fundamentals of teaching."

Weathership Tenders Called

With work half completed on the $150,000 job of re-fitting the weathership Stonetown with heavier plates, another call for tenders has been issued by the department of transport for similar work on the weathership St. Catharines.

The call for tenders went out Monday and closes at the end of this week.

Both Victoria Machinery Depot, who were awarded the Stonetown contract, and Yarrows Ltd. are believed bidding for the St. Catharines job.

At Victoria Machinery Depot some 19 heavier plates have been fitted on the Stonetown. She is expected to meet her scheduled sailing date June 15, when she sails to relieve the St. Catharines on weather station Papa, 1,000 miles out in the Pacific.

Work on the Stonetown was delayed for about 10 days while local DOT and VMD officials waited authority from Ottawa to start replating.

Because of the size of the contract the project requires cabinet approval.

Marine engineers recommended heavier plates for the two weatherships, both converted Royal Canadian Navy frigates, operating out of Victoria, when plate cracking was noticed after tours of duty on the Pacific weather station.

Action on PGE Terminus

THE provincial government is to be commended on the decision to go ahead now with the Squamish-North Vancouver link on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, needed to give the British Columbia-owned railway a metropolitan terminus connecting with the other rail systems of the continent. Premier Bennett's announcement this week makes it clear that the province means business, and that tenders will be called for the next phase of the work in June. The government apparently is also adhering to the plan to build railway and highway together in so far as the Squamish connection is concerned.

Whatever may have been the several causes of the deadlock over the Squamish-North Vancouver rail construction, they have not been much apparent outside of the lower mainland area. Other communities in the province, in a position to see the result objectively, have long hoped that the PGE would be given proper terminal facilities; without which in the past its operations have been severely hampered. Greater Vancouver itself grew from the combination of tidewater and rail connection, without which there would have been no metropolis with its expanding suburbs. One can understand objections on the ground of residential values suffering from through rail connection, but how else is the connection to be made? Railways have no wings, and the tracks must go somewhere?

All contention aside, had this move been undertaken 30 years ago when it was first mooted the Pacific Great Eastern Railway would unquestionably have had a very different record in the intervening period. As a non-competitive line serving an otherwise untapped British Columbia area, the railway has developed its own traffic in spite of the isolated nature of its franchise. With full terminal connections in the Greater Vancouver area its usefulness would be much improved. Without that terminus talk of the northern projection of the line into the Peace River area remains visionary.

When it has demonstrated its intention to go ahead with the PGE on its own account British Columbia will be in a stronger position in seeking help at Ottawa. Two other provinces, both in the east, have received marked encouragement from the Dominion for provincial railway development. British Columbia was initially refused, but the matter is not likely to rest there.

The Constitution

IN discussing the constitution before a Young Liberal rally in Ottawa this week the prime minister did not make clear that its amendment was purely a matter of Canadian decision. Mr. St. Laurent recalled that in matters affecting both provincial and federal rights enabling legislation must still be passed by the parliament of Great Britain. He went on to say that as a nation "we have a right" to do what is necessary for the national development. No one in Great Britain questions this right and language of this kind is therefore misleading; it suggests that what he calls "the last vestige of our former dependent status" is still subject to the strings of the Westminster parliament.

That is far from the case. The British parliament would be only too happy to have its Canadian counterparts take over all and every authority contained in the British North America Act; it would be relieved thereby from the anomalous position of having to pass legislation over which it has absolutely no control and concerning which it acts automatically at Canadian request. The only reason that reference to Westminster is still required on provincial-federal matters is that Canada cannot make up its mind how these separate jurisdictions should be reconciled by appropriate amendment to the BNA Act. As soon as it does the United Kingdom parliament will willingly rid itself of what for it is purely a technical responsibility.

Canada is a confederation, with both provincial and federal authorities jealous of their several prerogatives and fearful lest any amendment to the BNA Act would lessen their powers. To date they have not found an acceptable formula on which to agree. Quebec, for example, would shy away from any proposal that seemed to enlarge federal powers at its expense, and for that matter the same can be said of any other province. The problem that Mr. St. Laurent is hopeful of settlement, although he only used the word "eventually" in this connection, is thus solely for Canadian disposal. As with former appeals to the Privy Council the decision is strictly in Canadian hands; no one else need have any say in the matter at all.

False Comparisons

WHEN referring to cost of living trends, wage scales and commodity prices prevailing in the United Kingdom it is common practice this side of the Atlantic to translate pounds, shillings and pence into dollars and cents. This results in entirely fallacious comparisons, because it leaves out the element of purchasing power. To try to relate dollar currency to sterling is as unrealistic as an attempt to compare the value of a dollar with that of a handful of seashell currency on a South Sea island. Sometimes the comparison serves a useful purpose, as when it shows a visitor to the United Kingdom what his dollars will buy; but mostly it tends to misinform rather than to inform.

An example of this was contained in a report from London about an increase in the indemnities of members of parliament. This said that the increase would bring an MP's basic salary up to £1,500 a year, then added in brackets "$4,200." That addition put the item out of focus, because it invited a comparison with the $10,000 which Canada now pays to its parliamentarians. In terms of purchasing power the British MP is not nearly so poorly off as would appear from that report. In goods and services his salary will buy him about the same as $7,000 would for a Canadian.

Similarly in commodity prices much misunderstanding can be caused by turning prices in sterling into their supposed equivalent in dollars. In England one can purchase for £10 a coat which would cost $60 or $70 in Canada. That is fine for a Canadian visitor to England, but it does not really mean a man earning his living in the U.K. can clothe himself at half the cost, because salaries and wages are in proportion.

This works two ways. For instance, in reading that the salary in England for a certain occupation is, say, £10 ($28) a week, one's first reaction is that this is shockingly poor pay, yet in comparative purchasing power it is actually equivalent over there to something like $60 a week.

EDC Issue Comes Back to Life

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

AFTER a bitter two-year fight during which its representatives in the National Assembly were divided right down the middle, the French Socialist party has now come out in favor of the European Defense Community.

Coupled with several recent victories in local elections by supporters of Foreign Minister Bidault, EDC advocate, the development has pulled EDC off the back burners.

There was even a possibility the government, striking while the iron is hot to forestall re-organization by the opposition, would bring the matter to a head in parliament very shortly. It was left to simmer by the calling of the Geneva conference because France wanted to do nothing which might irritate Soviet Russia pending negotiations for a truce in Indo-China.

Now that the Geneva talks have produced nothing but tangles, Bidault would be greatly aided in his negotiations by the evidence of unity in Europe which EDC would present.

Of the 105 Socialist deputies in the assembly, 38 had agreed to vote against EDC. At the party congress Sunday, the vote was 1,969 to 1,215 that the party should support the measure, and 2,414 to 972 that the opposing members should be required to get on the bandwagon or face possible expulsion.

Of the four major demands for international support which the French government claimed were necessary before it could put EDC through parliament, three have been met by guarantees of military co-operation from Britain and the United States and by agreement of the EDC nations to set up supra-national political control of the united army as against a mere joint military staff.

* * *

On the other issue, the status of the Saar, Germans and French are back at work with the prospect that some sort of Europeanization will be agreed upon. Chancellor Adenauer of Germany has just been given a renewed expression of support from his own party for his efforts to get action on all these matters looking toward European unity.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

IN our superior fashion we shall be lifting skeptical eyebrows at the unlettered natives of Nepal who think Chomolungma the Goddess Mother of the Snows has revenged herself on Sir Edmund Hillary for his conquest last year of Mount Everest. We who are full of superstitions ourselves.

There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio . . . and there certainly are.

Now of course I don't think the goddess mother is visiting her displeasure on Sir Edmund, although I have my own pet precautions—by jove, yes. But it seems like a decided twist of fate that on returning 12 months later to the scene of his triumph he should be laid low, does it not? Naturally we all hope he'll soon be up and about again, as strong as ever.

As a rule even the wisest of us, or should I say the most hard-boiled, only tempts the gods so far. Witness people approaching a ladder, one of the oldest and most enduring superstitions: If someone is up the ladder with a pot of dripping paint then certainly it's wise to give it a wide berth, but we dodge it even if no one is there. And actually the safest place near an empty standing ladder is below it.

A man once said a wise thing about superstitions, to wit, that we're all tattooed in our cradles with the beliefs of our tribe. This circumstance I suppose is what gives rise to all those complexes one reads about, and it is a boon to psychiatrists and motion picture producers. On the other hand another man said that superstitions are, for the most part, but the shadows of great truths.

Perhaps not nowadays when he has probably seen himself in television but once the Zulu thought that at his death his shadow would become an ancestral spirit. That was because he did not know from whence it came.

Where there is mystery there is superstition.

I find this a fundamental truth myself every time I potter in the garden. Who will explain for example the power that thrusts a blade of grass up through an asphalt path? Indeed there is without doubt some mother goddess at work when the weeds grow and the peas don't. It would not surprise me were she in league with the fertilizer people.

As an upstanding citizen I would like to be able to say I scorn superstitions, but that would deny the little ivory owl I carry about in my pocket. For luck, need I tell you. Why an owl goodness knows and I've forgotten when and where I picked it up, but not for all the tea in China would I lose my little owl. I never drink China tea, by the way, which merely adds to the confusion of the whole thing.

Yes, we are a confused race despite our worldly wisdom. One person hangs a horseshoe on the wall—paradoxically with ends down thus ensuring that the luck will fall out—another touches wood when he says something the mother goddess might not like.

More often than not he touches his head, unaware how apt this gesture is.

No, I don't think we should laugh at the Nepalese. At least their faith is simple. Ours is so skeptical we must inquire into all the mysteries. That's how it comes about we have hydrogen bombs. And as a result some folk will tell you with a straight face that herein lies the secret of the miserable spring weather Victoria has had.

And isn't it?

The Wonder of Singapore

By RONALD BAXTER
Editor of The Sunday Times, Singapore

IT is one of the most amazing and heartening sights on earth. You can see it in any Singapore street: a jostle of people of many different races and colors all living, working and playing together in friendship and harmony.

The Chinese predominate; there are about 800,000 in a population of 1,100,000. There are about 250,000 Malays and Indians, the latter from every corner of the sub-continent. The Ceylonese, Eurasians and Indonesians have sizeable communities. And there are people from Britain, Holland, Australia, the United States. In fact there is someone from everywhere on this teeming, prosperous island.

Racial bars: they don't exist outside a few clubs, both Asian and European. And these restrictions are fast crumbling. Go to any night spot—luxurious restaurant or cinema—and you will see the races mingling together. Before I left Singapore recently I was given a dinner by my colleagues at a Chinese-owned hotel. At one table there were 10 people from 10 different parts of the globe. All these people had several things in common. They spoke English, they got on well with each other despite differences in custom and religion, and they were glad to work together to build the new Singapore.

Today there is more development in Singapore than anywhere else in Southeast Asia. Two vast skyscrapers, one of 21 and the other 23 stories, tower over the bustling waterfront. Both are Chinese owned, British designed. In their fine air-conditioned offices are housed firms of many nationalities. Ultra-modern factories, turning out everything from soft drinks and Chinese sauces to metal boxes and sewer pipes, ribbon the colony's Bukit Timah Road, highway to the Johore Causeway and the mainland of Malaya with its immense rubber estates and tin mines.

Economically, Singapore is thriving. There is practically no unemployment and a scheme for training unskilled workers for skilled jobs is at hand in case a recession arrives.

Politically, Singapore is still behind some British dependencies, though advancing fast. Before the war there were no political parties, no elections. Today both the Legislative Council and city council have elected majorities. Indian, Chinese, Malays and British councillors discuss the city's problems and decide on new laws. Plans for universal suffrage are advanced.

What about social conditions? In most Asian countries they are shockingly backwards. In some respects even rich Singapore lags behind many European countries. But in all Southeast Asia there is no territory doing more for its people.

A huge housing scheme which has provided a town within a town is just one of those undertaken by the Singapore Improvement Trust, a government-controlled body which is tackling the immense task of rehousing Singapore's slum dwellers and also providing for the lower middle class. Last year, more than 25,000 people were housed by the trust. Private building, of course, goes on at a furious pace all over the island.

The immensity of the problem facing the trust and the colony's excellent social welfare department can be seen from the fact that the excess of births over deaths on this small island is some 650 a week and continually rising. The death rate is very low for a tropical country—about 11 per thousand. There is no malaria, cholera, smallpox. Although there is some tuberculosis, caused by the combination of a humid climate and overcrowding, this is being vigorously tackled.

Everywhere in Singapore there is expansion and progress. The four-year-old university has about a thousand students from all over Malaya (as always, of an astonishing variety of races).

Schools go up at a rapid rate; they have to with the population growing so fast. Although there are still not enough places for the enormous number of children, there is promise of English education for all soon.

Culturally, Singapore is going forward too. The old jibe, "the cultural desert," is completely out-dated.

Occupation: Hobo

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

THAT delightful song, "The Happy Wanderer," seems to have burst on American radio audiences at the wrong time so far as factual background is concerned. That is, unless it is designed to suggest a backdrop of the Tyrolese Alps rather than the rustic byways of Merrie England.

For, according to Ernie Henson, a bearded wayfarer to whom 30 years of tramping the roads of Britain represents "a way of life," the welfare state has played hob with the life of a hobo. "We have been registered, checked, urged into new-fangled reception stations, persuaded to take regular jobs, bathed, questioned, and generally treated as prehistoric freaks," he says.

Your true tramp or hobo deeply resents the implication that his career is one of worthlessness. He is an itinerant, a vagabond, a follower of the open road, living off the countryside; but he has his dignity. And he is not looking for security; he has it.

And he has no more liking for bureaucrats with their forms and red tape than did Henry David Thoreau when he retired to Walden Pond. In fact, that is what makes other fields, possibly French or Italian fields, look greener to Ernie Henson and his few remaining companions in Britain.

The Labor government which inaugurated "fair shares" missed the point that not all the individualists are capitalists with something tangible to share. Mr. Henson's "boys" report that "the French and Italians are prepared to let us alone as long as we behave, and that is all we have ever wanted."

Glass Houses

(From The Winnipeg Free Press)

PEOPLE who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones but the very fact that there is such a saying is proof that they do. Down east the other day, Hon. Douglas Abbott was quoted as hinting that some insurance companies had too much overhead, that their expenses need not be so high. The finance minister said that, as a policyholder, "I would hope that there is still the possibility of some further reduction in cost ratios."

There may be much in what Mr. Abbott says, but he should be reminded that Canadian taxpayers feel much the same way about the federal government. Until it convinces taxpayers that it, too, is seeking to cut its extravagance it really shouldn't be talking about other people's overhead.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Statistical indications that radio's listening audience is dwindling fail to stop the cheery announcer from starting off with "Hello, everybody."

New York accuses the management of a huge insurance company of nepotism, and has us sitting up late reading the fine print in our policy to see if we're covered against that.

When Frau Lotte Schmidt discovered for the third time feminine garments in her husband's briefcase, she dashed to a lawyer to seek a divorce. It was only when she came back home that she was told by her husband that he had lost his job with the bank and was now employed as a salesman of feminine lingerie. He had not dared to tell her of his change of profession.

One dark night two owls were perched on an exposed branch. They sat snuggled up together, talking happily. Suddenly a heavy shower drenched the pair, and the male bird lasped into a sullen silence.

The female owl tried to get him to talk, but he refused to pay her any attention. Finally she asked: "Don't you love me any more?" "Too-wet-to-woo, too-wet-to-woo."

The Packsack

FROM the provincial forestry authorities it is possible to obtain infant trees either for nothing or so near to nothing that most of us, on first experience, order far too many. Far too many, that is, for our energy. The last lot I got, a year ago, were 100 Scotch pine and 100 jackpine; and by the time I had found suitable spots and dug the holes for 15 of the former and 25 of the latter species, all my arboricultural passion had subsided, and I had blisters on my palms and a crick in the back.

But worst of all, I had 160 infant trees on my conscience. It is true they were in pails of water, and not suffering. I visited around the neighboring summer cottages, to inquire if they wanted any small pines for planting. But since it was early May and hardly anybody was up at the cottages yet, I had no escape that way. So, after a day's rest, I selected a sandy waste a mile or so away, known as the Sand Run, through which a seldom-used channel passes. There the digging of holes would be easy. The baby pines moreover would thrive in such perfect soil and environment. And it would be flattering, in years to come, to be able to visit the plantation and know it was in a sense, mine. It took me less than two hours to plant the 160 babies in this out-of-the-way spot. I did not regiment them. They were spaced at random over the ground, as they would be by nature rather than by man. My conscience was relieved.

During hot spells last summer, I went around in my skiff a few times and with a pail watered the little pines. Only four of them had died by summer's end. The rest were sturdy and had got a good bite on life.

Early this spring, when I arrived for the ever-joyous ceremony of opening the cottage for another year, I found that only eight of my 40 planted around the cottage had survived the winter. I hurried over to my private plantation at the Sand Run to select a few of the best for transplanting to the cottage.

They were all gone. In the sand were footprints only a few days old. Some vandal had come and looted the whole lot. My rage was white hot. I forgot all about these 160 infant trees that had been on my conscience a year ago. They had become my property.

Tree planting is about as good a way as any of studying your interior structure.

Eat and Grow Younger

Egg, Cheese Dishes Stretch Budget, Give High Protein

This is another in a series of daily articles from the best-selling book, "Eat and Grow Younger," which provides invaluable information on nutrition, and one of the simplest and most effective of diets. By following the tenets set out here, you can literally eat and grow younger.

BY LELORD KORDEL

These egg and cheese dishes are splendid menu-extenders and budget-easers. In addition, they are high-protein, tasty and offer variety to the menu. Especially will you find many new and different ideas for high-protein breakfast main dishes among them.

These egg and cheese dishes may be served also at luncheon or dinner. In fact, if the midday meal is a substantial meat one, then I recommend that a light egg or cheese entree be served for supper in the case of persons whose physical activities are no longer strenuous enough to demand a heartier evening meal.

Moreover, these egg and cheese dishes provide excellent entrees for the invalid's tray, or for the meals planned for elderly persons.

COTTAGE CHEESE OMELET

4 eggs, well beaten
4 heaping tbsp. cottage cheese
1 tbsp. skim milk powder
dash of salt
sprinkle of paprika
pinch of sweet basil

Beat the cottage cheese until creamy, stir in the milk powder, blending until perfectly smooth. Season and add the very well-beaten eggs. (For a fluffier omelet, beat egg yolks and whites separately, folding in the stiffly-beaten whites at the very last.) Pour into a buttered omelet pan or heavy skillet and cook over very low heat until lightly browned.

If an omelet pan is not used, the omelet must either be turned like a pancake, or allowed to finish cooking in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) after the bottom is lightly browned.

EGGS HAWAIIAN

1 egg per person
1 tbsp. sour or sweet cream per egg
1 tsp. powdered skim milk per egg
1 tsp. grated fresh or unsweetened coconut per egg
salt to taste

I'm about to let you in on a taste secret that makes scrambled eggs at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu an experience not to be forgotten. Like everything else superb in the culinary world, the secret lies in a simple little taste trick—coconut!

Scramble the eggs in the usual way by heating well, then blending in the cream, milk powder and salt. Add the coconut, and turn into a well-buttered skillet over a very low flame, allowing the under layer to set well before lifting the edges so the uncooked top portion may run down.

Watch closely to avoid overcooking. If preferred, the eggs may be scrambled in a double boiler, a method which requires no butter and is an excellent way to prepare scrambled eggs for a reducing diet.

EGGS A LA SICILIANA

4 eggs (1 per person)
4 chicken livers
1 tbsp. tomato paste
1 tbsp. chopped onion, leeks or chives
3 tbsp. cooking oil
4 tbsp. warm water
4 tbsp. cooking wine
salt to taste

Saute the halved chicken livers and the onions in the heated oil for about five minutes over a slow fire. Add the tomato paste which has been diluted by the warm water. Salt to taste, and allow to simmer slowly for five minutes.

Add the wine and continue cooking for three minutes. Then, one at a time in order not to break the yolks, slip in the eggs.

Cover the pan and allow the eggs to poach for three minutes, or until the whites are firm. Serve at once. This is my favorite version of poached eggs.

City's First Paper Printed in French

Victoria's first newspaper was printed in French on a press shipped out from France.

The Royal Society of Canada was told the story at a symposium in Winnipeg Monday, says a Canadian Press dispatch.

The newspaper was Le Courrier de la Nouvelle-Caledonie, founded in 1858 by Count Paul de Garro, a refugee of the Second Empire.

The paper preceded the British Colonist by three months. It printed its first edition on September 11, 1858, and managed to produce eight more issues before folding less than a month later.

Donatien Fremont, former associate editor of Le Canada, who is working on a history of the French in Western Canada, traced the story of Le Courrier's press for the symposium.

The press, old when Le Courrier got it, was later turned over to The Colonist.

In the gold-rush days it printed the Cariboo Sentinel in Barkerville; then it went to the Inland Sentinel at Kamloops.

The press was retired after more than 50 years' service and is now in the museum of St. Ann's Convent in Victoria.

Haile Selassie To Visit U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, who has not visited Britain since regaining his throne in 1941 after six years of exile in London, will pay a three-day state visit here in October. The 63-year-old emperor has been invited by Queen Elizabeth. He is at present touring the United States and will visit Canada this week.

SWISS DISCOVERY FOR ECZEMA
SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT FOUND

Scientists have discovered that an internal deficiency in the body can be one of the main causes of Eczema. This led to ten years research, resulting in the processing of a natural remedy extracted from pure vegetable oils and now contained in the Swiss "F 99" Preparations. "F 99" is a new and successful approach to Eczema. It is a Two-Way Treatment taken internally to relieve the deficiency (Capsules) and applied externally (Ointment) for absorption through the skin. "F 99" is being used with outstanding results even on cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

Your druggist will confirm the remarkable results obtained with "F 99". Ask him for an illustrated booklet packed full of information. Don't delay your treatment, start with "F 99" today. F-51

Power System Offer Studied

The B.C. Power Commission is studying a proposal to take over the city-owned Prince George power and light system, it was learned yesterday.

Officials say commission engineers will report on the system's present operations following a request from Prince George municipal officials that the commission take over the system.

Results of the study will form the basis for negotiations with Prince George officials if both parties agree on the engineers' recommendations.

Who is Martin Pretorius?

He is a descendant of the ancient Pretorius family which migrated from Holland to South Africa during the early adventurous days of the Dutch East India Company. The city of his birth, Pretoria, was named for General Marthinius Pretorius, founder and first president of the Transvaal, Dutch Republic of South Africa.

Martin Pretorius is now President of the Pretoria Valley Nutritional Research Foundation, Escondido, California.

What did Pretorius discover in Africa?

WHILE IN THE SERVICE of the South African government, Martin Pretorius came in close contact with primitive people. He was impressed with their well developed bodies and abundant vitality. Continued observation brought the realization that these people did not have headaches, poor circulation, sluggish elimination, bad complexions, flabby tissues, chronic fatigue, sleeplessness, irritability, "jumpy nerves," failing glands, poor eyesight. Nor did they suffer from arthritis, catarrh, colds, colitis, asthma, sinus, diabetes, skin diseases, nervousness, constipation, heartburn, indigestion, rheumatism, ulcers. Furthermore, these primitives had no cancer, heart trouble, and did not die from high blood pressure.

But as soon as these superbly healthy and happy natives migrated to the cities and adopted city ways of living and eating, he noted that they began to suffer from the same ailments and diseases responsible for so much unhappiness among civilized people.

Investigation of the causes of this change was for Martin Pretorius the beginning of a lifetime career of study, research and service to mankind.

Feeling better is up to you!

IMPROPER EATING AND LIVING HABITS are responsible for most of our disorders and troubles today. A better understanding of your body, how it functions, and what its nutritional requirements are, as presented in these Pretorius Motion Pictures, can show you the way to overcome your disorders; make you look and feel younger; improve your eyesight and complexion; tone up flabby, sagging tissues; give you greater vitality and endurance; and help you reduce or gain weight; you don't have to be a FANATIC or "go Primitive" to regain your health and zest for living.

Here's what people say about Pretorius

"We are particularly pleased with the response we are getting from your articles on diet."—DAILY MIRROR, N.Y.

"I have had the pleasure of hearing Martin Pretorius twice and thoroughly enjoyed both lectures."—ELEANOR KITCHEN, Assistant Dean of Women, Boston University.

"His lectures proved not only to be very interesting, but unusually helpful. The fact that the audience remained for two hours, and were then reluctant to go, is ample evidence of the attitude of his hearers."—FRANK C. SPRAGUE, President, Northeastern University

"After hearing one of your lectures on Food Science, I was so impressed with your broad knowledge of the subject that I was pleased when you addressed our Physical Directors' Society at their regular meeting at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The members present were unanimous in endorsing your work."—GEORGE L. LISTMAN, State Director of Physical Education, Mass.

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*

tunes your engine without tools!

Actually releases up to 15% more power by overcoming lead and carbon deposits constantly accumulating in your engine.

Acts before you've finished your second tankful.

Think of it! Without touching a tool—you can get up to 15% more power from your engine automatically.

The major cause of power loss—pre-ignition and misfiring—can now be overcome by the gasoline you use.

It's an engineering fact

All of today's gasolines—because they are designed to meet the needs of modern high-compression engines—contain deposit-forming compounds. This means that lead and carbon deposits are constantly accumulating in most engines. These deposits rob you of power two ways!

In combustion chambers the deposits get so hot they set off the fuel mixture prematurely. The explosion hits the piston before it's reached the proper firing position.

When this happens, power works against you, not for you. It is called pre-ignition, and it occurs most often when you actually need more power—for accelerating or climbing a hill.

The second way these deposits steal power is by coating the ends of your spark plugs. Because the deposits divert electricity, the spark "shorts out," the plug misfires. Fuel is unburned, produces no power—just wastes your money!

Now you can get that power back—tune your engine without tools with a new kind of gasoline. You do this by using Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP—the greatest gasoline development since the introduction of tetraethyl lead.

TCP additive breaks through the power barrier set up by the lead and carbon deposits. It "fireproofs" the hot spots in combustion chambers, preventing pre-ignition. Power works for you again.

And on spark plugs, it changes the nature of the deposits to prevent misfiring. You get a full spark again and the spark plug fires every time. Your engine smooths out and delivers up to 15% more power.

TCP acts quickly

Before you've finished your second tankful, you'll feel your engine's had a tune-up. Remember, because these lead and carbon deposits accumulate constantly, continued use of Shell Premium with TCP is essential to retain its full benefits. Shell Premium with TCP is available only at your Shell dealer's.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

Williston Addresses Albernis Grads

PORT ALBERNI—This province, still largely undeveloped, offers great opportunity to the graduates of its high schools, Education Minister Ray Williston told the graduating class of Alberni District High School at convocation ceremonies Sunday night.

The 71-member class was the largest in the history of the district.

Principal Eric J. Dunn referred to the class as unique — the boys outnumbered the girls.

Best wishes were extended by Mayor Ben Wright of Alberni and Mayor Loran Jordan of Port Alberni.

Appreciation of the part played by teachers and parents was expressed by valedictorian Lois Eckstein.

Historian Tom Johnstone also paid tribute to parents and teaching staff. Class prophet was Roger Nobert.

Inspector H. C. Ferguson introduced Mr. Williston and Trustee Ralph Minorgan pronounced the invocation and benediction. The high school orchestra and mixed choir contributed to the program.

Sunday morning the class attended a special service conducted by Rev. H. R. Whitmore in First United Church.

A banquet Friday evening was held in the high school cafeteria, with Roderick MacGillivray as toastmaster. A dance followed.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Liberal Association of Campbell River and District has agreed to enter a decorated car in the Rotarian July 1 parade.

All-Sooke Day Set for July 24; Committees Named

SOOKE HARBOR — 'All-Sooke' Day will be held Saturday, July 24, at Sooke River Flats.

The annual outdoor celebration, logging sports and barbecue is staged by Sooke Community Association. Members of that group met Monday to draw up the committees to assure the traditional success of the now famous festival that has done so much towards the improvement of the Sooke district.

Proceeds from All Sooke Days have built the large Sooke Community Hall, purchased Sooke River Flats and the Sooke ball field property, and sponsored the construction of tennis courts. The Sooke Community Association recently voted $500 for the Sooke Athletic Club to build larger grandstands and dugouts at the Sooke ball field. Practically all labor has been donated in these projects.

First held in the year 1934, the giant celebration has been an outstanding example of community co-operation and good business management.

Committee chairmen are: P. W. deP. Taylor, A. F. Brownsey and C. A. Helgesen, reception; Mrs. Frank G. Gray, guest table; James Forrest and Andre Robillard, salmon barbecue; John E. Martin, beef barbecue; William Stephenson and Patrick Forrest, midway games; George Pimlott, Sooke River Flats grounds; Mrs. R. G. Nixon, baby show; Sam Fedosenko, bathing beauty contest; Gordon Nixon, publicity; Mrs. William Eddy, advertising; Reuben Acreman and Ralph Pontius, gold rush on the banks of Sooke River; D. J. DeRochie, prizes; Mrs. Eileen Conder, canvassing; Rupert Soule, Eric Michelsen and Harry Helgesen, sports; Eric Bernard and Leonard Jones, log birling in Sooke River; Bertram Mugford and William Baker, car parking; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Collins, contests; Frank G. Gray and Harold Pontius and Mrs. Kenneth Cains, wind-up dance in Sooke Community Hall.

A motion to have the power-saw competition eliminated for this year's logging sports was very definitely defeated, and this event will be held as usual, with extra space being allotted for the contest. The finalists will compete in the centre lanes for a trophy and extra prize.

Admission to All-Sooke Day is free as are also seats in two huge grandstands on either side of two tracks.

George Jones is president of Sooke Community Association and Walter E. Conder secretary-treasurer.

Breakwater Work To Be Started Soon

DUNCAN—Work on a new breakwater at Cowichan Bay is expected to start within a month or two, according to information received by the Duncan Chamber of Commerce. The construction will take three or four months and the breakwater will possibly be completed before winter rough water. Appropriation for the work is $120,000.

The structure will be of pile and plank, with the planks extending five feet below low water, and this depth is expected by the engineers to be sufficient to stop most of the heavy surge. The breakwater will be built south of the present government wharf, with connecting gangway to the breakwater and mooring floats.

The outer wing of the breakwater will be 250 feet, with the southerly side extending shoreward for 200 feet. Inside this area will be three mooring floats 10 feet wide, and there will be 1,200 feet of mooring space. The mooring floats will be of log and plank construction. A large area around the floats will be dredged out to a depth of 10 feet below lowest low tide, and the dredged out area will be marked by piles.

The development of a community park along the Cowichan River was considered by Henry Irwin, chairman of the tourist committee, to be one of the most important things the chamber could undertake. Mr. Irwin visualized a large-scale trailer park with adequate electric outlets for a large trailer traffic, and with wading pools and playgrounds for children, and picnic and recreation facilities for adults.

The federal ministry of transport will be asked to speed up a public hearing on the application of Western Pacific Airlines to extend their service from Ganges to Duncan and Lake Cowichan, and the suggestion has been made that the hearing should be held in Duncan so that the many people interested in the Cowichan district could attend.

May Queen Crowned At Parksville

PARKSVILLE — The crowning of Parksville's May Queen was the highlight of the annual May celebrations staged by the PTA at the Community Park sports ground.

Petite, dark-haired, Margaret Trnovsky, Grade 8 student at Parksville Junior-High School, was crowned by retiring queen Maureen Young, before a crowd of about 700. Attending the new queen were Shelagh Henstock and Lynne Johnson; and page boy Paul Lambert. Flower girls were Barbara Ryan, Donna Krog, Heather Farrell, Irene Platz, Dianna Hambrook and Hazel Bernath. Special guests were Qualicum Beach May Queen Bonnie Henderson and her attendants, Laverne Clarke and Sharon Lewis.

Escorts and attendants were W. J. Ham, Fred Mills and Frank Shortreid, representing local organizations.

Student council president Don Green presented Queen Margaret with a gold locket.

Principal J. L. Nicholls was master of ceremonies and in his address of welcome commended Mrs. T. A. Hocking and PTA committees for organization of the program.

Entertainment included tumbling by Port Alberni High School students under direction of Bill Popowich; national and folk dances by Parksville and Errington students, Maypole dancing; a novel flute band presentation by Nanoose Bay pupils, a display by Parksville Scouts, and varied numbers by the Florence Clough school of dancing of Victoria.

A parade through the village was led by kilted piper Douglas Leask and majorettes, with costumes of the children making a colorful escort for the May Queen's party.

Judges of costumes were Mrs. W. J. Ham, Mrs. J. Soutar and Mrs. M. R. Elliott. Prizes were awarded as follows: Preschool couple, girls, Gail Hodgson, Janie Butler; single, Lila Hocking; boys, Bobby Duff; decorated doll buggies, Cindy Thompson; tricycles, Diana Willmore; girls, Grades 1-4, Judy Johnson; boys, Harry James; decorated bicycles, Mark Leffler.

About 300 attended the May Queen's ball which wound up festivities in the evening.

The idea of the savings bank originated in England.

Two Cougars Caught Alive

CAMPBELL RIVER—A well-known hunter yesterday added to his "bring-'em-back-alive" laurels when he came back from a foray with two snarling, 50-pound young cougars in tow.

He is David Williamson, who answered an emergency call Monday from Brown's Bay resort, about 30 miles north of Campbell River.

Mrs. Milton Adams of the resort reported that several of the predators had been lurking near the camp.

With the aid of his two pedigreed cougar hounds, Sport and Boon, the hunter, working in pitch blackness, managed to tree the young cougars and rope their legs.

The mother, which had been roaming about in nearby brush, was killed by one shot after being treed by the hounds.

The two young cats brought to about six the number of live cougar Williamson has brought back with him. They have been shipped to many parts of the world — one to the RCAF's Cougar Squadron in England.

Wilson Elected to Board

Donald Wilson, of Ladysmith, has been elected to a Vancouver Island seat on the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, winning the first Island election in 12 years and defeating A. E. Hull, Victoria.

The Island seat on the three-man board had been held unopposed by R. N. Mangles, Courtenay, who resigned this year.

Other members elected are A. W. McLellan, Cloverdale, and Alex Hope, Fort Langley, who will represent the Fraser Valley.

The three members of the 1954 board will choose a chairman from among themselves.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was quiet on the Winnipeg grain exchange, featured by a little broader export interest in barley.

About 250,000 bushels were reported sold, mostly to the United Kingdom.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included United Kingdom 700,000 bushels, Japan 715,000, Belgium 65,000, Malta 28,000 and Colombia 25,000.

Class two durums were unchanged; other Lakehead prices for class two, 1WA and domestic wheat were up ¼ of a cent.

CHICAGO (AP)—Mild hedging pressure kept wheat down on the board of trade as the first car of new crop wheat of the year arrived at Kansas City.

Losses in the bread cereal ran to several cents at the extreme. Wheat closed ¾ to 2 cents lower.

DENTAL GROUP

First organization of dentists in Canada was the Dental Association of Ontario, founded in 1867.

Stocks Rise After Making Weak Start

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices closed higher after a late burst of activity pulled them out of a slump.

The market opened weak but at mid-day industrials started to climb and other groups added in the last hour.

Industrials, golds and western oils finished ahead but base metals were still lower after regaining some lost ground.

Papers, utilities, foods, liquors, financial institutions, textiles, motors and manufacturers led industrials up.

Western oil trading was narrow-range and gains were mostly in pennies. All gold groups gained fractions while Manitouwadge issues were firm. Uraniums slipped.

Beaucage Advances

MONTREAL (CP)—The stock market moved irregularly higher in moderately active trading after a weak start.

Canadian Dredge advanced 1½ points and Canadian Industries was 1¼ better.

Miscellaneous industrials, papers, utilities and banks gained strength. Senior metals drifted off while beverages and steels showed a mixed pattern. Carriers and senior oils were firm.

A mixed tone ruled the mines in active trading. Beaucage was 50 cents stronger but Anacon was down 20 cents. Western oils improved slightly with Pacific Petroleum moving up 40 cents.

National Ex. Bought

VANCOUVER — Base metal made the best advances of the day, with trading spread over an unusually long list of stocks.

Best showing was made in National Exploration which traded over 50,000 for a gain of 10 cents. It closed 47 cents.

Also higher were Western Tungsten, Reeves McDonald, and Nesbitt Labine.

Consolidated Mic Mac and Liberal each staged a recovery adding about 45 cents each on the day, but other oils were mostly around previous levels.

Powell River was active at $31. ¾, and Coast Breweries added 5 cents at 4.40.

Strong New York

NEW YORK, (UP)—Stocks advanced moderately over a broad front.

Aircrafts featured on the upside. Gains in the group ranged to 2 points in several of the issues, with new tops in United, Douglas, Bell, Boeing, and Grumman. Boeing featured the group in turnover.

Metals, oils, and special issues also turned in wide gains.

Trading was active largely because of huge volume in Packard which is linked in rumors to a merger with Studebaker. The former gained a fraction to a new high while the latter was steady. Other motors held about steady.

Numerous individual features developed to carry the industrials to a new top since October 18, 1929, and the rails since March of 1953. Utilities were near their best since 1931.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Victoria Tyees, with righthander Joe Nicholas in the fold at last, may come up with another pitching addition before they return home a week from Thursday. He is Phil Page, ex-Stanford University southpaw who has been signed by Portland Beavers. Page is said to have a fine future in baseball and could be a big help . . . providing they don't slip before then, the Tyees' first-half chances will probably depend on how they make out with Vancouver Capilanos in an eight-game series later this month . . . at least some of the Big Four games, which will be televised over an American network this season, may be available to Victoria football fans. KOMO (channel 4) is planning to handle some of the telecasts if possible. KING (channel 5) will have the college game each Saturday . . . Attorney-General Robert Bonner managed to attend the opening of the annual B.C. Game Convention at Nanaimo last week but didn't stay around any longer. Which is just another argument for those who contend that the game department should be a separate department or come under the jurisdiction of a department more suitable to its needs. Just why it has come under the attorney-general's office is something I've never been able to figure out . . . whether you like his politics or not, one has to agree that Emil Zatopek is probably the greatest runner of all time. There seems to be no limit to the records the amazing Czech can break and he probably would give the four-minute mile a real tussle if he concentrated on that distance . . . hardly in the same class is Don Cockell, the British heavyweight hope who was anything but impressive last night as he scored another close decision over Seattle's Harry Matthews, one of the most over-rated fighters of recent ring history . . . a dropped line in the Colonist account of Victoria Golf Club championship play resulted in the erroneous report that Einar Brynjolfson had won the Todd Cup for the fourth time. The winner was Bill Newcombe, who posted a 139 for the 36-hole competition . . . the split WIL season is the bane of schedule-makers. The Tyees make one Prairie trip in each half and, already rained out of two games at Calgary, they can't make them up until the second half, if then.

Pat Mulcahy, Vancouver Island representative of the B.C. Football Commission, and Sam Smith, his secretary, personally guaranteed the $4,000 requested by the Football Association of Canada to bring the Glasgow Rangers to Victoria. Net receipts fell about $1,200 short of the needed sum and unless the FAC is willing to accept less, as has been requested, a couple of public-spirited football fans are going to take quite a financial set-back. A move has already been started to do something about it if the FAC refuses and Victorians, who turned out in disappointingly small numbers for the match, should certainly give any planned action their full support.

Congratulations to hard-working Carl Pedersen for being selected as the seventh winner of the Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy. The extent of Carl's efforts on behalf of youngsters probably surprised most, which is an added tribute in itself. It was no easy task the selection committee had to name one Inter-City Lacrosse League game between Vancouver Pilseners and Nanaimo Native Sons was given a "trial run" by CBUT and if results are satisfactory, Victorians will probably get to see some lacrosse action on their TV screens . . . it's no wonder that it's so often hard to catch up with fish. The California Fish and Game Department tagged an albacore tuna which was caught in Japanese waters only 324 days later. It had travelled the 4,650 miles at an average of 15 miles a day, good swimming in any language . . . there are more than 1,700 entries for the U.S. Open golf tournament, scheduled for June 17-19. This beats the old high of 1,688, set in 1947 . . . for those of you who thought it was expensive to see one of the world's ranking soccer teams, Glasgow Rangers, for $2.00, it costs $1.95 for general admission and $4.95 for clubhouse accommodation for the right to lose your money at Saratoga race track . . . Casey Stengel is still at it with the New York Yankees averaging a new line-up for almost every game as the old maestro seeks to protect his reputation with some more of his juggling, which is never consistent, but which so far has produced great results . . . The Canadian Open golf tournament became a 72-hole affair in 1907, after three years at 36 holes. The first winning 72-hole score was 306, but 314 won in 1911, and as late as 1922, it took 303 strokes. Twenty years later, Johnny Palmer only used 263 strokes to win. The last Canadian to win was Karl Keffer of Ottawa, who did it in 1914 with an even 300 strokes . . .

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Shamrocks' in tonight's Inter-City Lacrosse and the Tyees to split at Calgary. Gyros in Little League action and Tillicums in senior "B" softball. The Tigers, Orioles, Yankees and White Sox and the Phillies, Dodgers, Cubs and Cards in major league action. Batting average to date: At bat 374, hits 256, percentage .689.

Gorge Vale Helps Golf Newcomers

"Keep that left arm straight," Gorge Vale professional Joe Pryke tells Fredrica Scherbuam, who arrived from Heidelburg, Germany, 14 months ago, during the third of a series of six lessons for beginners at the Gorge Vale Golf Club Monday night. About 50 beginners are taking advantage of the classes conducted by Pryke and members of Gorge Vale every Monday night. Classes have proved an overwhelming success and another six-lesson course may be held immediately following the present one.

Last night's score: Nanaimo 13, at Vancouver 10.
Next Game: Tonight, Vancouver at VICTORIA.

Only Norm Baker, who will probably be out for another two weeks with a skin infection, will be missing from the Victoria line-up at Memorial Arena tonight when the Shamrocks seek to extend their lead atop the Inter-City Lacrosse League standings to six points at the expense of Vancouver Pilseners.

Coach Red McMillan announced last night that veteran Arnie Ferguson will make his first 1954 start.

BOOTH AGAIN ELIGIBLE

League officials announced that Larry Booth, suspended for drawing a game misconduct at Nanaimo Saturday night, is again eligible to play.

Booth was handed a one-game suspension, served at New Westminster Monday night, as was Nanaimo's John Lumley, his opponent during the brawl in the season's wildest game.

Lumley sat out his game last night and his team won without him, surprising with a 12-10 victory over the Pilseners at Vancouver.

JIM OUT SIX GAMES

A stiffer penalty was handed out to Jim Hetherington, Victoria's spare goalkeeper charged with starting the fracas by swinging his stick at a Nanaimo player from the players' bench. Hetherington has been suspended until June 16 and league officials said a letter of warning will be sent to the three players.

Ferguson will one of the best in the game, will partner Bob Monaghan on one defensive combination in front of goalie Geordy Johnston. Nip O'Hearn and Jack Thompson are the other back-line pairing.

With Arnie Browning still under the weather and listed as utility player, Al Gill will replace him on a line with Whitey Severson and Booth.

BAMFORD MOVES UP

Jack Bionda, the league's leading scorer, Jackie Northup and Jack Sibbald form a second line. Harry Irwin, Elmer Matthews and Bill Bamford will play on the third threesome. Bamford is ordinarily a defense man but McMillan explained that it was his plan to use both Bamford and Thompson as forwards from time to time.

"It will be good experience for them," he said.

Tonight's is the third meeting between last year's finalists and the Rocks will be seeking their third win. They scraped by, 12-9 and 13-12, in the previous games.

BREMNER GETS THREE

Bobby Bremner, a Vancouver recruit, led Sons to their win as he scored three goals and passed for another in a game which saw tempers flare more than once and 11 minutes in penalties handed out.

Rob Lumley, Frank King and Arnie Duggan each scored twice for the winners, while Jack MacKay, Jim Anderson and Ed Hamson got a pair apiece for the losers.

Brooklyn Dodgers, apparently in high gear again now that Roy Campanella is back behind the plate, moved into a virtual tie with Milwaukee last night by handing the Braves a 2-0 setback.

Russ Meyer, particularly effective against the Milwaukee team, not only held full sway with a neat six-hitter but contributed two well-executed sacrifice bunts to the Brooklyn run-making.

It was the fourth win in a row for the Dodgers and the third straight defeat for the Braves after their 10-game winning streak, and it left them only four percentage points ahead of the revived Brooklyn club.

YANKS GAIN

That was the only National League game. Over in the American League, the New York Yankees picked up a half game as rookie Bob Grim gained his fifth victory and Hank Bauer batted in four runs in a 9-3 conquest of Washington's Senators.

Big Gus Zernial batted in six runs with his 10th and 11th home runs as Philadelphia Athletics manager Eddie Joost, inserting himself in the line-up to try and help his floundering club, gave Zernial some help with a home run and two singles in four trips.

In the other game, Detroit Tigers dumped Baltimore Orioles back into the league basement with a 4-3 win.

Rain kept Victoria Tyees idle at Calgary for the second straight night but Edmonton Eskimos gave pursuing WIL clubs some renewed hope of catching the leading Vancouver Capilanos by scoring a 7-2 victory before 1,223 fans at Edmonton last night.

Lewiston Broncs not only romped, 7-3, over Tri-City Braves behind the pitching of veteran Al Yaylian but made news in two other ways as well.

TO CLAIM FORFEIT

First, the Broncs announced they would claim the game by forfeit if Vancouver failed to show up for its scheduled game next Monday. The Capilanos are scheduled for Sunday action in Calgary and claim it will be impossible for them to get to Lewiston on time.

Victoria faces much the same problem, being scheduled for Monday action at Spokane after a Sunday game at Edmonton but the Tyees will try to be there.

Lewiston also announced that $8,000 had been raised from the sale of books of tickets and, it appears, the financial crisis there is over at least temporarily.

STILL IN

Spokane also got in the news with the announcement by owner Roy Hotchkiss, who threw in the sponge last week and announced he was quitting that he "would keep the club going until some one comes up with a plan to keep the Indians in Spokane."

Hotchkiss also announced that he has taken steps to get complete ownership of Ferris Field which is partly owned by the city.

"I haven't surrendered the franchise and I don't plan to surrender it until the transfer can be made," Hotchkiss said. "But I want to get out as soon as possible."

Meanwhile, the Indians gave Spokane baseball a bit of a lift by making it three in a row over Salem Senators, 6-4.

Wenatchee Chiefs knocked Yakima out of second place and moved into a third-place tie with the Bears by scoring an 8-5 win.

Results dropped Victoria into fifth spot but a half game closer to the leaders.

Ladder Derby Has 39 Rungs Still Unfilled

This, apparently, is the week to qualify for the big August 32 fish-off in the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association ladder derby. From all indications, a legal-size grilse should win one of the 50 qualifying rungs.

After three days of fishing in the first week of the 10-week qualifying period, only 11 rungs have been claimed—and 10 of those were claimed Sunday.

No fish were entered Monday, and yesterday Ray Bowles made the only bid as he weighed in a three-and-a-half pounder at the Anchorage Boathouse.

However, the first week, being eight days long in this case, still has five days left.

Unofficial list of rung-holders as of last night:

1—20½ pounds, J. M. Wood.
2—16½ pounds, Ron Kaladinis.
3—14-12 pounds, Gary Petrie.
4—11½ pounds, Art Midlane.
5—10½ pounds, Brian Vance.
6—9½ pounds, Ray Hayward.
7—8½ pounds, George Mickrs.
8—8 pounds, Horace Heal.
9—8 pounds, D. S. Ogus.
10—7½ pounds, Ray Bowles.
11—3 pounds, A. Rawcliffe.

Last night's score: Chinese Students 11, Fletchers 4.
Next game, Thursday: Duncan Lumber vs. Arrow Furniture, 6:45, at Central Park.

The fast-improving Chinese Students, faced with the prospect of defaulting their senior "A" men's softball league game to Cec Fletchers in the third inning because of an empty bench, signed a player from the stands and went on to score an 11-4 victory at Central Park last night.

The incident occurred in the top of the third frame when centrefielder Tom Derr and rightfielder Jimmy Chan collided while chasing Chick Newman's long fly ball. Chan was shaken up on the play and was forced to leave the game.

STAN TOSSED

Starting the game with only one substitute, the Students were reduced to nine players in the second inning when veteran Stan Tenning was tossed out after arguing a close call at home plate. When Chan left, Students signed Reg Derr, a senior "B" player who went into action in the outfield.

The winners, who have looked better than their fourth-place standing would indicate in recent games, scored seven runs in the last four innings after trailing, 3-1, at the end of the first frame.

Starter Ed Feychuck was blasted out of the box in the eighth inning and his successor, big Ah Wiebe, was treated roughly, giving up four runs. Wallie Borgens went the distance for Students and pitched scoreless ball after the fourth inning.

Third-baseman Bobbie Lowe snapped out of a hitting slump to lead the winners at the plate with three singles and a double. Newman's third-inning fly ball fell for a home run and the big first-baseman also added a single.

Aussies Beat Canada; Fleming Loses Match

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland—A spectacular performance by newly-crowned British amateur champion Doug Bachli gave Australia a 5-4 victory over Canada Tuesday in the first day of the Commonwealth golf tournament.

Bachli and national Australian champion Peter Heard had suffered a one-up defeat at the hands of Walter McElroy of Vancouver and Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., in the morning doubles play as the Canadians gained a 2-1 advantage in matches.

In the afternoon the Australian pubkeeper, who upset U.S. Walker Cup star Bill Campbell to win last week's British amateur, faced McElroy, the 1951 Canadian amateur king, in singles play with a chance for revenge.

Bachli turned on the heat on the home stretch for a 3-and-2 victory in what turned out to be the deciding match.

In Tuesday's second match, New Zealand trimmed South Africa.

The British team, the fifth entered in the matches, was idle.

Weslock followed his doubles 3 singles victory over Heard, victory with a resounding 4-and-3 singles victory over Heard.

The other Canadian double winner was veteran Phil Karley of Toronto, who teamed with Bobby Fleming of Victoria, B.C., for a 2-and-1 victory over R. S. Stevens and W. Shephard of Australia and then trimmed J. Coogan 3 and 2 in his afternoon singles match.

Fleming was beaten, one up, by Stevens in his singles match. Coogan and H. Berwick beat Don Doe of Granby, Que., and Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., 2 and 1 in the doubles and Berwick won his singles match over Doe by the same score.

In the remaining singles contest Shephard beat Silverberg 3 and 2.

B.C. Track Coach

HARRY MITCHELL

British Columbia 100 and 220-yard champion from 1946 to 1950 and Canadian 220-yard champion in 1949, Harry Mitchell, assistant coach of Victoria's YMCA track team, has been named coach of B.C.'s representative team which will compete in the interprovincial championships at Toronto early in September. Selection was made at a meeting of the B.C. Track and Field Association at Vancouver Monday night.

Total of 820 To Compete In B.E. Games

VANCOUVER (CP)—A total of 820 athletes are scheduled to come here for the British Empire Games, July 30 to August 7.

A list issued by games headquarters Tuesday shows country-by-country:

Canada 221, England 127, Gold Coast 12, Northern Rhodesia 17, Scotland 36, New Zealand 67, Nigeria 15, South Africa 64, Northern Ireland 1, Southern Rhodesia 15, Australia 75, Hong Kong 10, Pakistan 27, Wales 22, Jamaica 21, Trinidad 10, Kenya 12, Singapore 10, Malaya 5, Fiji 9, Uganda 6, Bermuda 8, Barbados 2, British Guiana 4, Bahamas 7, India 5.

Young Hurler Whiffs 16 In 1-0 Tussle

Arnie Walker struck out 16 and gave up only two hits in pitching Hollywood to a 1-0 victory over Esquimalt in a Victoria and District Minor Baseball Association juvenile league game at Macdonald Park last night.

Ian McDougall picked up two of the winners' four hits off loser Bob Leach and scored the only run in the fifth inning.

In the bantam league action, Tom Serase picked up his fourth win of the season and clouted his fifth homer—a three-run blast in the second inning—as Fairfield Eagles drubbed United Commercial Travelers, 12-4.

Next game, tonight: National, Gyros vs. North Kiwanis, Little League Park, 6:30 p.m.

Elks, trailing 14-0 after three and a half innings, made an amazing recovery against Oak Bay Kiwanis at Little League Park last night before finally dropping a 15-14 decision in an American League game that went an extra inning.

It was Oak Bay's second victory of the Little League baseball season and moved the Kiwanians into a third-place deadlock with Elks. But it took a double play with the bases loaded and only one out in the bottom of the seventh inning to wipe out an Elk scoring threat and give Bruce Graham the victory.

With Ron Spence pitching steadily and the Oak Bay batters hitting the ball often and hard, Kiwanis looked on its way to an easy victory. But Elks came to life, scoring five runs on only one hit in the fourth; eight runs on two hits in the fifth, and squeezing across the tying run in the sixth.

During their run-scoring spree, Elks were aided by nine walks, four hits, including doubles by Terry Rendle and Ken Gregory, three wild pitches and three errors.

Barry Hitchens, who relieved starter Art Squires in the second inning, breezed through the fifth and sixth innings without the loss of a run but two walks and a double by Marwyn Thomas—his fourth hit—plated an Oak Bay run in the seventh frame.

Elks threatened in the bottom half as two walks and an error loaded the bases with no one out. But Graham forced one runner at the plate and a double play ended the inning.

Zatopek Breaks Two More Records

Brussels (AP)—Incredible Emil Zatopek smashed his own world distance running records for six miles and 10,000 metres Tuesday night. He broke the world 5,000 metre record Sunday.

His 10,000 metre time of 28 minutes 54.2 seconds was 7.4 seconds under the old mark but the grimacing Czech shook his head sadly and declared:

"It is possible to do better."

His time for six miles was 27:39.2. The previous record was 28:08.4.

The Czech army officer winner of three gold medals in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki, was full of excuses after his record-breaking performance.

"The track was rather heavy and wet. I had some difficulties getting into action. I could not find the proper pace because I had no chance of running yesterday."

Monday was his day off after lowering the 12-year-old 5,000-metre record of Gunder Haegg's by a full second in Paris.

A surprise entry, Zatopek didn't make up his mind to try for the record until he went on the track. He said he had a running table prepared for a 10,000-metre attempt in 28:45.0. The heavy cinder track, sodden with rain, made this time impossible.

Despite his excuses, Zatopek's time was a marvel on consistency. He covered the first 5,000 metres in 14:27.6, the second 5,000 in 14:26.6.

Cockell Again Beats Matthews—No Title Threat on Performance

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Don Cockell switched from a body to a head attack midway in his 10-round fight with Harry Matthews Tuesday night to pile up a decision over the American.

Cockell, who weighed 210½ to Matthews' 180½, kept alive his hopes for a possible shot at the heavyweight title this fall. It was the Briton's second victory over Matthews and his ninth straight success since being knocked out by Randy Turpin June 40, 1952, in a British Empire light-heavyweight title scrap.

Cockell won a split decision over Matthews last August 7 in Seattle after flooring the American three times in the ninth round.

Cockell was awarded the decision Tuesday night by referee [illegible] by a [illegible] margin, the sixth, eighth and ninth. He had Matthews in trouble in the fifth round and again in the eighth.

At the half way point, Cockell became the aggressor and began using his bulk. He threw rights which reddened the Seattle boxer's body and then backdanced out of range making Matthews miss with returning rights.

NO KO WALLOP

Two of Cockell right crosses slowed the American but the British champion, gunning for a shot at the world heavyweight champion, Rocky Marciano, in September, was not good enough to follow up the advantage.

Late in the fight, Cockell, bleeding from a puffed eye and a battered nose, looked in worse shape than the American.

At least three of Cockell's punches appeared to be low. Two were righthand punches delivered by the one-time Battersea Blacksmith, while the referee was standing to the left of him.

In the eighth Matthews threw three stiff lefts to Cockell's head. His sudden burst of punching drove his roly-poly opponent back. But as the American moved in Cockell swung a hard right to the body that stopped Matthews.

Cockell took the round by a big margin.

The bout drew 35,000 persons. The gate was estimated unofficially at $150,000.

Purse distribution was unofficially estimated at some less than $25,000 a man.

Canadian-Owned Irish Horse, U.S. Jockey Add Interest to England's Turf Classic

BY ALAN HARVEY

EPSOM DOWNS, England (AP)—A couple of wealthy Canadians, an ace American jockey and an Irish racehorse join cosmopolitan forces Wednesday in a bid for the crown jewels of British racing—victory in the 175th Epsom Derby.

Twenty-two thoroughbreds are expected to go to the post in the three-year-old classic run over one of the toughest and trickiest courses in the world. Among them is the "Canadian" horse Blue Sail, jointly owned by Calgary oil men Max Bell and Frank McMahon and scheduled to be ridden by veteran U.S. jockey Johnny Longden.

Blue Sail, a compact, stretch-running colt from County Kildare, has won only one cheap maiden race in his life but his Canadian connections are hopeful.

"It sounds impossible, it would be too good to be true," Bell says, "but I think we might just win."

LONGDEN WINS

And Bell's confidence was given a boost Tuesday when Longden, offered a surprise mount in an Epsom race, booted Bird Song home at 7-1 in a flight finish. The result seemed a rebuff to British turf critics who claimed Longden's riding style would be unsuited to the track.

Tuesday the American jockey, who had never before ridden in a race at Epsom, sailed around fearsome Tattenham corner as if he'd been doing it all his life.

It may be tougher for Blue Sail.

Ranged against the Irish horse will be such fancied runners as Sir Percy Loraine's Darius, [illegible] in his nine races but untried over the Derby distance of 1½ miles; Rowston Manor, standing a hulking 17 hands; the Queen's black colt, Landau; the lone French invader, Ferriol, and two American-owned outsiders, Never Say Die and Blue Prince II.

Betting favorite seems certain to be either Rowston Manor, winner of the Lingfield trial stakes May 14, or Darius, which won the one-mile Two Thousand Guineas last April 28.

Bell and Longden, whose plastic saddle also annoys the natives, are concerned about the weather. Blue Sail likes it soft.

UPLANDS GOLFERS LEAD

A team of 26 golfers from the Uplands Golf Club edged a Port Angeles squad, 26½ 25½ at Uplands Sunday. A return match is scheduled at Port Angeles August 22.

Two inches of rain have fallen in the last 10 days but Bell would like to see still more.

American jockeys have ridden before in the Derby but Longden has taken Fleet Street by storm. The Daily Express has given him front-page treatment five of the last six days. Tuesday two evening papers, the News and the Standard, gave their main spread to stories and pictures of the man who is called the Sir Gordon Richards of America.

Among Tuesday's morning papers, the News Chronicle has two long stories, one under the jockey's byline, the other analyzing Longden's riding technique. The Express has a 2,000-word story, signed by Longden, plus a cartoon and pictures showing him demonstrating his seat on a horse.

A cartoon in the Evening News depicts Longden perched around a horse's ears, a caricature of his monkey-on-a-stick style. British riders sit almost erect.

Even the Observer, a Sunday newspaper specializing in serious stories about world events, climbed aboard the Longden bandwagon. It had a long feature on Longden and a separate story on Bell, who was described as a "handsome young Canadian millionaire."

S. Pettit Named Winner For Best Trophy Letter

Sydney Pettit of 576 Oliver Street will receive two season passes to all home games of the Victoria Tyees baseball club for writing the best nominating letter in the Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy competition.

Although his choice for the award, Ed Duffin, didn't win, the panel of judges selected Mr. Pettit's letter as the best written among scores sent to the sports department of The Daily Colonist.

The three judges — Doug Fletcher, Archie McKinnon and Bruce Humber — selected Carl Pedersen as the sixth winner of the coveted award.

Here is Mr. Pettit's winning letter:

"I have the honor of nominating for the Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy Mr. Edmund Duffin, chief coach of the Victoria Fire Department Boxing Club.

"Mr. Duffin has been teaching boxing for forty-one years, and during the last ten has carried on his admirable work in Victoria. His remuneration has been solely the affection of his boys and the gratitude of their parents. To those who know him it is no surprise that boxing in Victoria has taken on new life and occupies an honorable place in the world of sport.

"I need not dwell on the technical excellence of Mr. Duffin's instruction. The successes of his pupils in the various cards and in the Silver and Golden Gloves speak for themselves. Far more important, in my opinion and in that of other parents concerned, is Mr. Duffin's profound influence on the moral and psychological welfare of his boys.

"As he enjoys their confidence and respect, he is able to impart to them his own splendid standards of sportsmanship. Endowed with unusual insight, he at once diagnoses the emotional disturbances that afflict boys and adolescents, and is able to effect an adjustment that would do credit to a professional psychologist.

"During these many years of service Mr. Duffin has given freely of his time and money and has never spared himself. He is never late, never misses a class, never lets his boys down. Here is a man who embodies the virtues which the Sid Thomas award commemorates. I have much pleasure, therefore, in nominating Edmund Duffin."

North Kiwanis To Construct Tennis Courts

Saanich is to get its first public tennis courts through the combined efforts of the North Kiwanis Club, residents of Reynolds Road, and the Municipality of Saanich.

D. F. Handel, chairman of the North Kiwanis Youth Services Committee, announced last night that work would start immediately on two hard-surface courts, to be located in Reynolds Road Park.

Under arrangements, Reynolds Road residents and the municipality will each contribute $500 toward the cost with the Kiwanians putting up the balance. The estimated cost is between $2,500 and $3,000.

When completed, the courts will be operated by the Reynolds Road Parks Committee.

City Wrestler Gets Chance In Semi-Main

Keith Hollett, Victoria's wrestling policeman, steps into faster company Thursday night at the Victoria Ballroom when he meets colorful Luigi Mecera, French-Canadian grappler from Montreal, in the semi-main event.

Hollett, who has been a regular performer in opening bouts, will be making his first start in the semi-main. He challenged Mecera after last week's card, which ended in a near-riot.

Buddy Knox, formerly the Masked Marvel, will match holds with Danno McDonald in the main event, which will be the best two-of-three falls with a one-hour time limit.

Harry Levine and Glen Fox will meet in the opener at 8.30.

Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football league will play their home games in Molson Stadium at McGill University this year, thus making it possible for Montreal to bid for the Grey Cup final.

Tenders Asked This Week For PGE Extension Work

Premier W. A. C. Bennett yesterday announced that first tenders for work on the PGE southern extension will be called this week and the rest within a month.

Contractors will be asked to bid on one of the chief obstacles of the 40-mile route, a large railway bridge over the Capilano River in North Vancouver.

Tenders for the rail extension itself and for rock cut work will be called later in the month and work will start this summer, the premier said.

The PGE board of directors made the decisions Monday night at the regular monthly meeting. Directors Einar Gunderson, former finance minister, and Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd were appointed to a special committee to supervise the construction work.

Six railway survey parties, he said, will go to Prince George this month to begin work on surveys for the northern extension into the Peace River country.

He said his request for the federal government to contribute 50 per cent of the cost for the two extensions was now being considered by the cabinet at Ottawa. He expressed confidence that the full 50 per cent will be paid.

Commenting on the PGE as it is now operating, Premier Bennett said that unlike the national railway lines whose traffic has decreased 10 per cent this year, the Squamish-to-Prince George railway has shown a 20 per cent traffic boost. He said the first four months' operations this year show "a nice improvement" over the same period in 1953.

He said costs of the southern extension are expected to total $10,000,000 or $12,000,000. And he added that he had never been told they would be double that, as claimed in the Vancouver reports.

Chaplain Dies After Parade

IROQUOIS, Ont., (CP)—Col. Cyril G. F. Stone, 53, principal Protestant chaplain to the Canadian army, collapsed and died during a Canadian Legion church parade here Sunday night.

Colonel Stone was stricken with a heart attack as he entered St. John's Anglican Church after a quarter-mile parade through this eastern Ontario town and died in the rectory a short time later.

Lead is one of the oldest of metals and there is evidence that the Egyptians used it some 5,000 years ago.

Accidents Continue Drop

Number of motor vehicle accidents and deaths and injuries resulting from them, continued to show a sharp decrease from 1953 in the latest B.C. report.

although thousands more vehicles are on the roads.

The report shows 1,565 accidents during April, 1953, compared to 1,382 for April, 1954, a drop of 11.69 per cent.

For the same two months, injuries dropped 12.36 per cent and deaths 33.33 per cent.

The same decrease is evident in the report for the first four months of 1954. There were 6,898 accidents during that period in 1953, compared to only 6,345 in 1954, a decrease of 8 per cent.

Injuries dropped 20 per cent and deaths 21.28 per cents for the four-month period.

There were 294,744 motor vehicle and motorcycle licenses issued up to April 30, 1953, and 317,148 issued this year, an increase of 7.6 per cent.

Thieves Take Man's Teeth

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—A 70-year-old man was beaten and robbed of even his gold teeth by two men, police reported Monday. J. W. Cole was found lying unconscious on his bed Sunday, partially paralyzed from the effects of the teeth-pulling and beating. His wallet was missing, too.

Red Shield Keeps Trying

Salvation Army canvassers, $8,000 short of their campaign objective, are still "soldiering on." Yesterday they pushed the total in the Red Shield drive to about $22,000.

The drive had pressed by competing appeals and a shortage of canvassers was prolonged an extra week when it failed to meet its objective before the May 31 deadline.

Now the army hopes to go over the top before Saturday, the new official ending of the campaign.

Some residential districts haven't been touched yet, said an army spokesmen. "To the people who live in those districts, we can only say we're sorry we haven't had enough canvassers."

Anyone who has not been approached may leave a donation at the Salvation Army Citadel, 757 Pandora, telephone E 3412, or telephone Mrs. H. E. Crowe, chairman of the women's division, at E 7457.

Another Victoria business establishment told city police yesterday that a cheque signed "Frank Groat" had bounced.

It brings to five the number of worthless cheques passed under the same name in Victoria since May 22. They totaled approximately $380.

The latest victim is Old Country Shoe Store, Johnson Street, where "Groat" was sold a $20 pair of shoes and given the balance in cash for a $55 cheque.

The cheques were drawn on a Vancouver company. Police were told the man was middle-aged and of "respectable appearance."

Speedboats May Use Portage Inlet

Portage Inlet may be a new site for speedboat racing. Although the inlet has never before been used for this purpose, the Victoria Inboard-Outboard Association is now making inspections of the area to see if low-tide depths will permit hydroplane racing there.

The inlet provides a wind-free spot ideal for spectators and the speedboat association would like to hold regular monthly regattas there.

It has tentatively made plans for its July 1 regatta to be held on the inlet. There will be further discussion at a June 9 meeting of the association when results of inspections will be disclosed.

More than 600 members and friends of the order from all parts of the province will attend. The parade will be at 7 p.m., June 9.

The session will end Thursday night with a banquet and ball at the Sirocco. Speaker will be Leslie E. Aston, deputy sovereign grand master from Texas.

Water Improvement Pledged

Lack of water in some Saanich homes raised a warm debate in council session Monday night.

Eve Street residents headed by C. H. Thomas asked for improved water service this year. The present two-inch water pipe has been in the ground about 35 years.

They left satisfied with council's decision to give their area priority next year.

Before accepting the promise, one of the five asked: "What happens if the house burns because of steam? Who is responsible?"

Councillors felt the municipality would be clear of liability and immediately met a protest from a Hautain Street resident about lack of water.

He found no reason to since as clerk John Tribe interjected that "you don't pay for water, you get it."

He had kicked for four years, the resident said. If the clerk had no water, he wouldn't smile.

General Teamsters' Union, Local 885, has signed an agreement with Western Lumber Carriers Ltd. for a 10-cent-an-hour across-the-board wage increase.

The new contract also provides five paid statutory holidays and one week's annual holiday with pay.

Two weeks' holiday with extra pay will be given after five years' service.

Students To See Brake Test

A graphic demonstration of the distance a car takes to stop after the brakes have been applied will be given Victoria high school students this afternoon and Thursday.

A blank shot is fired from the side of the car. A chalk mark is immediately made on the ground. Another mark is made when the brakes are put on, and a third mark shows where the car stops.

The specially-made machine belongs to the B.C. Electric Co.

Driver of the car will be a student recently trained in the Junior Chamber of Commerce driving course.

The demonstration will take place at 12:30 p.m. today on Cameson opposite Victoria High School, and in Oak Bay High school grounds on Thursday.

Regulations Claimed Driving Out Farmers

All farming in Saanich will have been wiped out by 1960 because of creeping city regulations and consequently increased taxes, Brian Houle, prominent Saanich farmer said last night.

He told Saanich council the cases of not less than 500 farmers are being affected by the low-grazing flour development on farmlands and predicted disaster if action is not taken before one hundred acres of land and sustenance is lost to the Municipality.

Mr. Houle, who was expressing the opinion of many farmers present, pointed to taxing them on the full market value of farmland from rural farm use to permit the erection of [illegible] on the remaining fifteen acres the size of building not farm-related.

He classified it as the first serious case of city regulations and said there was a lot more serious embarrassment on farms ahead on Cranford Ave[illegible].

The Council of Avenue subdivision was referred to to solve W. Lavender, chairman of Lidar Street.

He is faced with a possible $800 increase in taxes by re-subdivision through one of improvement schemes of water and flood streets, school work and storm drain services.

The new and exclusive G-E Frost-Limitor, on Roto-Cold Refrigerators, makes conventional automatic defrosting systems obsolete. As soon as a wisp of frost appears . . . presto! it's gone instantly, automatically. You push no buttons . . . make no adjustments. There are no pans or trays to empty . . . even the defrost-water is automatically evaporated.

Roto-Cold Refrigerator protects the natural flavour of foods . . . continually circulates cold, moist air throughout the cabinet . . . constant temperatures from top to bottom. Foods placed on any shelf get uniform protection that keeps them fresher, longer.

Roto-Cold's styling will add a modern touch to your kitchen . . . with interior finish of cool garden green, attractive copper and chrome trim. Butter conditioner keeps butter ready to use, easy to spread. Vegetable Crisper-Drawers keep fruits and vegetables garden fresh. Famous Thriftomat refrigerating unit guarantees years of trouble-free service. Your G-E Dealer is displaying the Roto-Cold along with the complete line of G-E Refrigerators now. See them now. To Take Part in Obedience Trials

Members of the Greater Victoria Dog Obedience Training Club discuss plans for the obedience trials to be held on Saturday, June 5, from 1 to 6:30 p.m. in the Badminton Club Hall on Amphion Street. They are Mrs. J. W. Anderson with her basenji; Mrs. C. W. Mackenzie with her pomeranian; Mrs. H. G. Craven and Mrs. N. Alokhazi with their shelties.

Ann Smith Honored

Mrs. Michael Whitehead, 1133 Chapman Street, entertained at a shower recently in honor of Miss Ann Smith whose marriage takes place this Saturday. The guest of honor received a corsage of pink rosebuds and her mother, Mrs. W. C. S. Smith, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. J. H. Calow, received iris and carnations. The gifts were centered in green wedding wheels. Guests were Mrs. D. G. Cree, Mrs. R. McRae, Mrs. D. Workman, Mrs. P. W. Kisop, Mrs. P. Cascino, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. P. Baragrainer, Mrs. [illegible] Crabb and the Misses Joyce Westwood, Vera Norman, Bernice Liddiard and Barbara Fisher.

Bride Elizabeth Reed Gowned In Bouffant White Net, Lace

White net and lace fashioned an exquisite bridal gown for Elizabeth Mary Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Reed, 3651 Santa Clara Road, Royal Oak, and her wedding to Duval Sydney Preston, son of Mr. R. W. Preston, 1521 Jubilee Avenue.

Rev. N. J. Godden performed the ceremony Saturday evening at St. Michael and All Angels' Church. [illegible] Stephard during the signing of the register.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, topped her gown with a fitted cap to [illegible]. Her three-tiered veil, [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible], fell from an orange blossom headdress, and her bouquet was of red roses and stephanotis.

Lending support, Miss Evelyn Reed as maid of honor chose a floor-length gown with [illegible] and a matching hat. Miss [illegible] and Carol Wilson, bridesmaids, were [illegible] and [illegible] and carried [illegible] and [illegible] and green carnations for the junior bridesmaids.

Mr. M. A. Lanning was best man, and Mr. Roger Hewett and Mr. Robert Hewett ushered.

At the reception at the Cordova Bay Golf and Country Club, the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and white tapers.

Mr. R. Chase was master of ceremonies, and Mr. V. [illegible] proposed the bridal toast.

For a honeymoon in Seattle, the bride donned a [illegible] with dark grey [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and PIPER—In loving memory of mother, who passed away June 2, 1949.

A voice we loved is stilled
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love has given
And though the body moulders here
The soul is safe in heaven
—Ever remembered by her husband and family

AND HAVE A BETTER JOB WITH PLYWOOD SHEATHING

For instance the cost of No. 1 Shiplap when you include the overlap and waste cutting is approximately 16c per square foot. Yet you can get the same effect with 3/16 thick Plywood Sheathing at only 8½c per square foot and a 4 x 8 Plywood Sheathing at 9½c a square foot.

YOU NOT ONLY SAVE

on material but on the application. You have the advantage of the speed which Plywood can be laid to walls, floors and roofs.

For Sub-Floor

Use the heavy 4-ply thickness—No holes to locate. Square edges. Per 4 ft x 8 ft sheet $3.36

For Walls

$2.98 for economical ¼" thick—watch how it goes on.

For Roof

Speedy—no waste—4 x 8 sheets cover fast.

For Concrete Forms

Use plywood for concrete forms. Smart, new finish. Here ratio easy and quick reference of load and span.

	Spaced	Unspanded
4x8 x ¼"	6 .6	$2.86
4x8 x ⅜"	4 .2	4.28
4x8 x ½"	8.26	4.12
4x8 x ⅝"	7.46	5.78
4x8 x ¾"	8.66	6.48

REMEMBER

Plywood construction is for appearance, strength and economy. Use PLYWOOD for sub-floors, walls, roofs, concrete forms, fences, a time saver for permanent jobs.

TV Talk

A very good morning, TV fans, on this first anniversary of the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

CBUT is marking the day with a pair of hour-long commemorative telecasts which include highlights of the same Kinescope recordings jet-flown across the Atlantic on Coronation Day.

Afternoon viewers will see the special films at 4. The program will be repeated at 9 p.m.

Highlights of the return of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, following their recent Commonwealth tour, will be seen at 10, on CBUT.

KING-TV's series "Stories of the Century," seen at 9 p.m. Wednesdays, is going over in a big way. Each story was especially produced for television, and features a true story of the Old West.

Tonight's story is about the black sheep son of a fine old Southern family, who was the brains of the biggest rustling gang of the 1880s.

Other stories to follow are those of Frank and Jesse James, Belle Starr, Geronimo, Doc Holliday and Billy the Kid.

Other viewing highlights include Red Skelton at a new time of 8 p.m. on KTNT TV.

David Niven is suspected of kidnapping and robbery as "The Man on the Train," on KING-TV at 8:30.

Coronation highlights are the feature on CBUT at 9.

Bella Lugosi in "Boys from Brooklyn," is the Candlelight Theatre presentation on KVOS TV at 10:30.

"Love and Poison" is tonight's outstanding European film on KING-TV at 11:15. The plot involves a Queen of Sweden and a young courtier.

Ballet fans will enjoy the "CBC Concert Hour" on CBUT tomorrow at 8:30.

Hume Hendren's "Evacuation to Apollo" will be the feature with a cast of Montreal dancers.

17½% PLUS SECURITY INVESTMENT

We have been fortunate in securing the listing of a new six-unit apartment on one of the finest streets in Victoria. The owner has a very good reason for disposing of this property and is prepared to sell at a price far below what it would cost to build today. This is a first-class investment and we recommend it highly. Briefly, here's what this one has to offer: Immediate possession. Low down payment. Low interest rate. Will consider trade for revenue property. Full price $42,000. Terms can be arranged. Phone us for full particulars.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	3◇	Pass
3♠	Pass	6 N.T.	All pass

North was unduly enthusiastic in his bidding. Unless partner had a maximum no-trump the slam bid was risky; if he had a maximum, presumably he would go on to six if North contented himself with bidding five. On the actual deal, South's play for the slam was not what you would call a good gamble but he made it because he could rely upon East to be strictly honest.

West opened the four of clubs. North played the jack to win the trick and East's three marked the opening lead as fourth-best. North led a spade toward declarer's hand and East ducked. South's queen won the trick. Now it was obvious that the heart finesse was useless if West was playing fancy with the ace of spades, so declarer had to assume that East actually held that ace. If the spade suit broke favorably the heart finesse could be avoided, so declarer cashed the diamond ace and crossed to dummy's diamond jack. On the king of diamonds East discarded the loud nine of hearts and South discarded the five.

North now led the nine of spades. East didn't dare to win the trick for then he would be caught in an inescapable squeeze which South could scarcely fail to recognize. He ducked and South put in the spade king to win the trick. Declarer then cashed the king of clubs and led to dummy's ace, preparatory to cashing two more diamond tricks. On the fourth diamond, East discared the two of hearts and declarer let go a spade. On the fifth diamond East should have blanked his king of hearts or discarded his ace of spades. Either of these plays might have led declarer astray. Instead, honest East discarded the spade ten and made the situation crystal clear. A spade lead from dummy put him in with the ace, and of course he had to lead a heart away from the king to give declarer two heart tricks and the slam.

The moral of this hand is not very moral. In bridge, there are times when honesty is not the best policy.

No Bus Fare Ruling Expected for Month

No decision on a requested boost in bus routes for Saanich can be expected for about a month, Public Utilities Commission officials said yesterday.

Application for the increase went directly to the PUC's motor carrier branch in Vancouver for processing and won't be dealt with by the commission for at least three weeks.

The proposed boost would affect residents in East and West Saanich, Central Saanich and organized areas on the Saanich Peninsula and View Royal.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines manager Conway Parrott said the new schedule is comparable to Mainland rates. He said increased operating costs were the reasons for increased rates.

New fares are computed on the basis of four cents a passenger mile. Here are some examples:

Victoria to Cordova Bay up from 30 to 35 cents; to Saanichton, from 55 to 60 cents; to Moodyville, 50 to 55 cents; and to Schwartz Bay, 75 to 85 cents. The 25-cent fare to Royal Oak and 75 cents to Sidney will remain unchanged.

Municipal councils in the affected areas have been served notice of the requested increases. If the councils reject them the PUC may call a public hearing.

Try placing a rubber or foam rubber mat in front of the sink and other work areas to lessen fatigue.

More than 30 Want Course

More than 30 persons have registered for the safe-driving course that starts Monday at Royal Oak School, sponsored by Saanich police and the Lower Vancouver Island Traffic and Safety Association.

Classes will be held on the evenings of June 7, 14, 21 and 28, and examinations will be conducted at the end of the course. Certificates will go to successful candidates.

The course includes instruction on air brakes, engines and other mechanical aspects of driving.

Saanich police have asked that persons interested in the course register as quickly as possible in order that seating arrangements can be made.

'Victim's' Evidence Clears Neighbor Of Assault Charge

A one-armed man who was supposed to have grabbed a 13-year-old boy by the seat of the trousers and thrown him over a six-foot fence, had an assault charge against him dismissed by Magistrate H. C. Hall in police court yesterday.

George Robertson, 517 Michigan, denied that he assaulted his next-door neighbors' boy, Colin Collinson, 521 Michigan.

Magistrate Hall described the incident as "trivial," and suggested the neighbors try to keep their tempers in future.

The boy's mother told the court that the incident occurred at about 7 p.m., May 18, when her son and a playmate went over the fence into Robertson's yard to get a baseball.

Mrs. Collinson said the accused came rushing from his house and made for her son when he dropped into the other yard. She said she told Robertson that he had "had it" if he touched her boy.

She said he grabbed Colin and threw him back over the fence into his own yard, where he landed on his stomach, knocking his breath out.

Questioned by the accused, Mrs. Collinson denied that her son had been told to keep out of the Robertson yard and to stop hitting Robertson's children.

She also said that she did not tell her son to lie on the ground until the police came. Mrs. Collinson rejected a suggestion by the accused that he was boosting her boy back over the fence.

Asked by the magistrate how high the fence is, the witness replied: "Oh, about six feet."

When Colin entered the box he admitted to the accused that he had been warned to stay out of the yard, and that he had been told to lie on the ground until the police came.

Magistrate Hall dismissed the charge after hearing the boy's evidence.

Three men were fined $35 when they pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving.

They were Bob Lowe, 961 Pembroke, Hugh C. Molyneaux, 1733 Monteith, and Leonard French, 326 Simcoe.

Magistrate Hall said he would make a recommendation for suspension of Lowe's license.

Police said that at about 5 p.m. May 23 Lowe attempted a right turn from the inside lane on Oak Bay Avenue onto Uneva Street and collided with a car on his right.

Molyneaux caused $250 damage to his car when he collided with a parked vehicle on Craigflower Road at about 5 a.m. May 23. The other car suffered $75 damage.

Counsel James Proudfoot said his client had been driving for more than 20 years, and that it was his first accident. He said Molyneaux required his license in his car-selling occupation.

Taxi driver Leonard French told police that falling asleep caused him to crash into a barricade on Johnson Street at about 5 a.m. May 23. His car suffered $175 damage, while the fence repairs cost $25.

Henry Harris, 395 Walter, was fined $10 when he admitted having the front license plate of his vehicle partly obscured.

Two men who pleaded guilty to driving the wrong way on one-way streets were fined $5 each. They were George Boyd, 2901 Colquitz, and Laboo Dien, 1296 Tolmie.

Three charges were laid as a result of a logging truck striking the underpass at Four Mile Hill last week, and at Colwood Court yesterday the offenses cost a Langford father and son a total of $45, plus costs.

Earl Charles Braithwaite was fined $10 when he pleaded guilty to employing a person as a chauffeur who was not licensed as such.

His son, Donald Earl Braithwaite, was fined $10 by Magistrate A. I. Thomas for acting as a chauffeur without the appropriate license.

He was also fined $25 for driving a truck that exceeded the height limit.

* * *

David C. J. Sewers was fined $25 for driving without insurance, contrary to his license restriction.

Speeding cost William J. Beighton a $15 fine. Robert W. Jamieson was fined $10 for straddling the highway centre line.

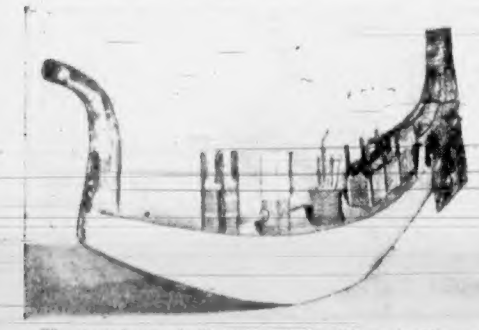
OPPENHEIMER RULED LOYAL BUT STILL BARRED

Pyramid Yields Priceless 'Sun Boats'

Two "sun boats" or "death ships" and the untouched tomb of an Egyptian nobleman have recently been uncovered beside the Great Pyramid of Cheops, seen above. Excavations director Kamal-el Malakh yesterday announced the discovery of the tomb, thought to be 3,500 years old, while exploring along the wall of the underground chamber in which the boats were sealed. He said the tomb may contain the nobleman's mummified body and pottery containers holding his earthly possessions.

Discovery of the sun-boats, considered the most important find since the opening of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, was made by accident during the digging of this causeway, part of a tourist road around the Great Pyramid. The workmen uncovered what appeared to be a very wide limestone wall, but which later proved to be the top of a long, sealed chamber housing the boats.



The two boats, built to carry the Pharaoh Cheops to heaven more than 5,000 years ago, have not yet been fully inspected, but oars, ropes, linen and other cloth aboard are believed still in perfect condition. This model, less than four feet long, represents a craft similar to the two 165-foot boats. The ancient Egyptians believed their souls would sail a course set by the sun, passing through 24 gates representing each hour of the day and night. The actual boats will not be brought out until the end of the current religious holiday in Egypt.

Strike Verdict Tuesday

A general meeting of the civic outside workers' union Tuesday will decide if and when they will strike here.

Union president Cecil Holt said last night he could not state what matters were discussed in an executive meeting.

Final decisions will be made by the membership, he said.

The workers recently cast a vote overwhelmingly in favor of strike action to back wage demands averaging about 17 cents an hour.

French, Reds To Talk

GENEVA (UP)—French and Communist Viet Minh military officials agreed Tuesday to open the Indo-China ceasefire talks today.

The representatives of the two high commands will meet at 3 p.m. (7 a.m. PDT), to start mapping an armistice. At the same time the nine-nation Indo-China peace conference, after a 24-hour recess, will sit to resume debate on how to control the armistice.

The agreement was reached at a meeting of Col. Michael De Brebisson, chief French military adviser to the ministry of Associated States of Indo-China, and Col. Ha Van Lau, chief Viet Minh military adviser.

Station Site Under Review

Indefinite adjournment has been made in a public hearing on application of the B.C. Electric Company for rezoning Saanich property for a $1,000,000 sub-station.

Municipal council last night granted the adjournment on request of the company, which said that in view of protest representations made at a recent public meeting it wished time to review the case.

Rezoning was proposed on Earlston Avenue and Opnir Street.

A letter to council last night from the objectors included a protest petition of 337 signatories. They expressed agreement to an adjournment on the understanding an alternative site will be selected by the company.

Persons concerned in the hearing will be given seven days notice of its resumption.

Police Ground Ottawa Flight

MONTREAL (UP)—Police have grounded a 27-year-old man found running up and down the main runway at Malton Airport, flapping his arms for a take-off.

The man, whose name was withheld, explained to police that he was trying to take off for Ottawa to discuss the world situation with Prime Minister St. Laurent.

He would use more conventional craft, the man said, but Trans-Canada Air Lines refused to give him passage.

Police carted the birdman to Cooksville jail and administered a large dose of sedative. He was still asleep when relatives came and claimed him.

Decision Appealed

Scientist Disregards Security, Majority of Board Decides

WASHINGTON (UP) — A special atomic security board recommended two to one Tuesday that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer be denied access to atomic secrets on grounds of "security" and his "conduct" in the hydrogen bomb program.

The three-man board, headed by North Carolina University President Gordon Gray, found unanimously that the famed atomic scientist, who played a leading role in developing the U.S. atomic bomb, is a "loyal citizen" and "discreet" in handling secrets.

But a two-man majority, composed of Gray and Thomas A. Morgan, New York industrialist, said Oppenheimer showed a "serious disregard" for security requirements, susceptibility to influence," "disturbing . . . conduct" in the hydrogen bomb program and lack of candor in testimony before the board.

NOT FINAL

The board's recommendation against restoring Oppenheimer's suspended clearance to atomic secrets is not final. It will be sent to the five-member atomic energy commission for final decision, along with the recommendation of AEC general manager K. D. Nichols.

Lloyd K. Garrison, Oppenheimer's lawyer, expressed astonishment that the board could find Oppenheimer loyal and yet decide he should be barred from atomic secrets. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D, N. Mex.), a member of the congressional atomic committee, also found this inconsistent.

VIGOROUS DISSENT

W. V. Evans, scientist member of the special board which held lengthy secret hearings, dissented vigorously from the recommendation that Oppenheimer be barred from future access to government secrets — a step that would mean an end to his former role of government consultant on atomic energy.

"I personally think that our failure to clear Dr. Oppenheimer will be a black mark on the escutcheon of our country," Evans said. He also expressed concern about the effect of an "improper decision" on the nation's scientific development.

PAST RECORD

Oppenheimer's case was reopened by Strauss shortly after he became AEC chairman last July. Oppenheimer, known as "Mr. Atom," headed the wartime Los Alamos project which made the first A-bomb. He was cleared for the job despite a record of past Communist associations.

The new charges, of which Oppenheimer was advised last December 23, were based on two main counts—past close associations with Communists, and a claim that he delayed work on the hydrogen bomb projects.

Oppenheimer admitted his Communistic associations but said he never was a party member. He said he raised doubts about building the H-bomb for scientific, moral and political reasons, but did not delay its production when then-president Truman ordered it built.

In its findings Tuesday, the board majority ruled out claims that Oppenheimer urged other scientists not to participate in the H-bomb program, or took active steps to discourage its development.

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who led U.S. development of the atomic and hydrogen bomb but is now barred from U.S. atomic information, is shown explaining aspects of one of the explosions he made possible.

Loyal Students Weep

Visa Puts Crimp In Hard-Won Trip

BY ALEC MERRIMAN

Forty American high school students, who worked for years to earn money for a Canadian holiday, were prepared to turn back yesterday when immigration authorities here refused to admit one of their party, a German exchange student whose visa had just expired.

Elizabeth von Treuenfels, 19, wept yesterday on board the Chinook when she was told she couldn't enter Canada and share the Vancouver Island holiday with her classmates.

Her friends wept with her and wanted to go back to Port Angeles with her and forego the vacation.

But Elizabeth wouldn't stand for that. She went back to Port Angeles alone, and a customs officer said he would look after her there.

Jerry Metcalfe, principal of their Florence, Ore., school and head of the party, assured the remaining students he would try to arrange for Elizabeth to enter Canada today.

Meanwhile, they are staying in Victoria rather than going on to Yellow Point, near Ladysmith, where they planned to spend the first few days of their holiday.

A wire has been sent to immigration authorities in Washington, D.C., requesting renewal of Elizabeth's visa.

"We hope she will be able to join us tomorrow (Wednesday)," Mr. Metcalfe said last night.

Elizabeth is a German exchange student sponsored at Siuslaw High School in Florence by the National Grange organization.

Mr. Metcalfe yesterday phoned the State Grange Master in Seattle, who immediately got in touch with Washington D.C. to try to get a visa for Elizabeth.

"The other students are disturbed," Mr. Metcalfe said. "She was well liked and has been at our school for a year."

He has been bringing his high school graduating class on a holiday to the Island every year for four years.

"They start in their freshman class to earn money as a class for the vacation," he said. "When they graduate the money is used for a holiday on Vancouver Island. We usually go to Yellow Point."

"The Canadian immigration officers were wonderful," he said. "They'd have let her in, but the U.S. immigration wouldn't let her come back because her visa had expired."

Elizabeth didn't realize when she boarded the Chinook at Port Angeles that her visa had expired one day before. Her passport is good until October, when she will return to Germany.

Reds Cut Hanoi Rail Link

HANOI (UP)Communist rebels have seized their first foothold along the Hanoi-Haiphong railroad and highway which bring American supplies inland from the main port of northern Indo-China, the high command has disclosed.

Red raiders seized a French Union outpost along the parallel lines only nine miles east of Hanoi. "Serious" French losses were acknowledged in the official announcement.

A supply train was blown up by a radio-controlled rebel mine three miles to the west about the time the Communist Viet Minh troops stormed the outpost.

Military sources said the loss of the outpost had not impeded traffic seriously so far. They hinted that it might do so if the Reds tried to build it up into a long-term roadblock.

Cleric's Wife Better

Mrs. H. E. Sexton, wife of the Anglican Archbishop of Columbia, is convalescing in England after an attack of pneumonia.

She became ill two days after she and Archbishop Sexton sailed from Quebec aboard the liner Franconia.

When the ship docked at Liverpool Monday she was well enough to leave it in a wheelchair and accompany her husband to London.

"My wife is still very weak," the archbishop said. "I have made arrangements for her to convalesce at Bognor Regis."

Children Die in Icebox

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—The suffocated bodies of two young cousins were found Tuesday in an old refrigerator box which a junk man had placed in his backyard only a short time before. The youngsters were Larry Murphy, 3, and Paul Murphy, 4. Their bodies were found by Mrs. Julian Drew, whose husband had picked up the box in a dump.

All on Plane Killed

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A small plane landed Tuesday near the wreckage of a National Airlines plane and reported all 15 Brazilian passengers and crew of four were killed. The plane crashed and burned Sunday 210 miles northwest of Rio.

Hanoi Supplies Blown Up

SAIGON, Indo-China (UP)—Violent explosions in an army supply depot rocked the city early today in what appeared to be possible organized sabotage by Vietminh rebels. The depot was about two miles from the city limits.

Vicious Winds Hit Texas

PADUCAH, Tex. (UP)—Vicious tornadoes and winds up to 100 miles an hour hit parts of west and north Texas Tuesday night, killing one person and injuring at least 15. Property damage was heavy in the Paducah area and around Wichita Falls.

Ottawa Move Queried

Mountie Fears Jump In Dope Smuggling

VANCOUVER (CP)—A high-ranking RCMP officer predicted here Tuesday night that a government decision to ban all legal imports of heroin will result in an intensification of narcotics smuggling into Vancouver.

Increases in the black-market price of drugs will also result, said the official, who asked to be unnamed.

Announcement of the ban was made in the Commons Tuesday by Health Minister Martin.

The RCMP official admitted, however, that the move will "undoubtedly act as a further deterrent to the illegal acquisition or distribution of narcotics in B.C."

Meanwhile, a Vancouver doctor who is heading a committee here in a research campaign to try to formulate a corrective program for addicts, said it would be very difficult to measure the effectiveness of the ban.

Dr. George H. Stevenson said only a small percentage of narcotics are obtained through thefts from drug stores and doctors' supplies.

"But it is a step in the right direction . . ."

Mr. Martin's announcement said all legal imports of heroin would be cut off after next January 1. At the same time the Commons passed legislation to double the maximum penalty for illegal narcotic peddlers to 14 from seven years.

A doctor-MP said of the heroin ban that doctors could get along without that drug, using others in its place as a medicine.

Cigarette Price Rise Announced

The price of popular brand cigarettes in all retail outlets, except chain stores and possibly a few other exceptions, will be 33 cents plus two cents tax as of today.

H. A. Walch, proprietor of two news vending and tobacconist stands, spoke for the trade which met last night when he said:

"We have made our decision. Our prices are 33 cents for 20 from now on, plus tax."

Packages of 25 will sell at 41 plus two cents.

Liquor Sought For Kitimat

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frank Howard, CCF member of the legislature for Skeena, charged in a statement Tuesday that failure of the government to establish a liquor store at Kitimat is making the northern coastal townsite what he described as "a breeding ground for bootleggers."

Camouflage Blocks Use Of Beaches

BY T. A. MYERS

An almost tangible aura of privacy hangs over many of the beach-access roads in outlying areas of Greater Victoria.

This feeling, fostered by beach-front property owners and tacitly approved by municipal authorities, is an effective bar to free public use of one of this area's best recreational assets, its miles of sea beaches.

These beaches are public property. The law requires that they be made accessible by public highways at frequent intervals.

Almost nowhere in the outlying regions does the number of access roads meet the legal requirements. And where roads do exist they are generally allowed—or perhaps designed—to look exactly like dozens of residential roads and private driveways.

The result is that the motorist can't tell, when he drives down a side road, whether he will arrive at the water or merely bumble into someone's back yard.

CHANCES SLIM

If he should, by chance, happen onto a public road, his chances are slim that he will be able to drive right to the water.

Most of these roads are improved only as far as the boundaries of private properties on the waterfront. Beyond that point, in many cases, the right-of-way is clogged by impenetrable brush.

In some cases a trail has been cleared through the jungle. Even here the picnicker has no way of knowing the trail is a public thoroughfare. Often it appears to be a private path or private land.

In many places this illusion is heightened by forbidding "Private Property" signs on every hand. These signs are carefully within the boundaries of the private lands that flank the right-of-way, but they certainly give the impression that the entire waterfrontage, including the narrow road allowance, is closed to the public.

USE DISCOURAGED

Thus, even where a route has been cleared to the beach, the public is discouraged from using it. The fear of invading someone's privacy is as effective a roadblock as a log barrier.

The owners of waterfront homes can't be blamed for putting up "No trespassing" signs. They naturally want to protect their lands from invasion by strangers, and they have a perfect right to do so.

Many of them also resent any invasion of the beaches which they have come to regard as their private preserves. Therefore they are content to see the beach-access roads remain unmarked and camouflaged.

PUBLIC CHEATED

As long as this situation exists, the public is being cheated of the use of a number of pleasant sunbathing and picnic sites.

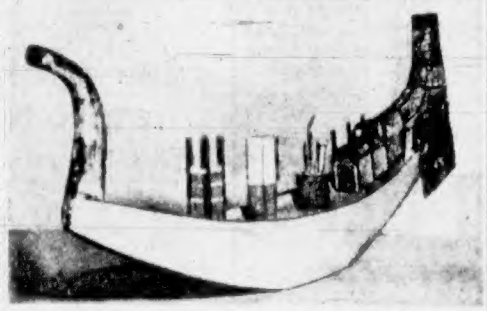
Municipal authorities have done little to encourage the public to use these beaches, perhaps for fear of offending the waterfront property owners who, in Saanich, at least, are the municipality's biggest taxpayers.

Public pressure is needed to prod the municipalities into opening up the lost beaches.

Pyramid Yields Priceless 'Sun Boats'

Two "sun boats" or "death ships" and the untouched tomb of an Egyptian nobleman have recently been uncovered beside the Great Pyramid of Cheops, seen above. Excavations director Kamal el Malakh yesterday announced the discovery of the tomb, thought to be 3,500 years old, while exploring along the wall of the underground chamber in which the boats were sealed. He said the tomb may contain the nobleman's mummified body and pottery containers holding his earthly possessions.

Discovery of the sun boats, considered the most important find since the opening of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, was made by accident during the digging of this causeway, part of a tourist road around the Great Pyramid. The workmen uncovered what appeared to be a very wide limestone wall, but which later proved to be the top of a long, sealed chamber housing the boats.



The two boats, built to carry the Pharaoh Cheops to heaven more than 5,000 years ago, have not yet been fully inspected, but oars, ropes, linen and other cloth aboard are believed still in perfect condition. This model, less than four feet long, represents a craft similar to the two 165-foot boats. The ancient Egyptians believed their souls would sail a course set by the sun, passing through 24 gates representing each hour of the day and night. The actual boats will not be brought out until the end of the current religious holiday in Egypt.

Police Ground Ottawa Flight

MONTREAL (UP)—Police have grounded a 27-year-old man found running up and down the main runway at Malton Airport, flapping his arms for a take-off.

The man, whose name was withheld, explained to police that he was trying to take off for Ottawa to discuss the world situation with Prime Minister St. Laurent.

He would use more conventional craft, the man said, but Trans-Canada Air Lines refused to give him passage.

Police carted the birdman to Cooksville jail and administered a large dose of sedative. He was still asleep when relatives came and claimed him.

Strike Verdict Tuesday

A general meeting of the civic outside workers' union Tuesday will decide if and when they will strike here.

Union president Cecil Holt said last night he could not state what matters were discussed in an executive meeting.

Final decisions will be made by the membership, he said.

The workers recently cast a vote overwhelmingly in favor of strike action to back wage demands averaging about 17 cents an hour.

French, Reds To Talk

GENEVA (UP)—French and Communist Viet Minh military officials agreed Tuesday to open the Indo-China ceasefire talks today.

The representatives of the two high commands will meet at 3 p.m. (7 a.m. PDT), to start mapping an armistice. At the same time the nine-nation Indo-China peace conference, after a 24-hour recess, will sit to resume debate on how to control the armistice.

The agreement was reached at a meeting of Col. Michael De Brebisson, chief French military adviser to the ministry of Associated States of Indo-China, and Col. Ha Van Lau, chief Viet Minh military adviser.

Defended by Senator

Lawyer Acquitted In Obstruction Case

(Special to The Colonist)

DUNCAN — North Vancouver's prosecutor was acquitted on a charge of obstructing the course of justice following a marathon County Court hearing here yesterday.

Ronald McMillan Howard caused a sensation here last February when he gained the acquittal of his client, charged with bootlegging, by getting police to identify the accused man's brother as the man they bought a bottle of whisky from.

Mr. Howard's victory was short-lived. His client, Douglas John Nelson, was charged again and convicted, and the lawyer was charged with obstructing justice.

"BENEFIT OF DOUBT"

In dismissing the case against Mr. Howard, Judge H. Sullivan of New Westminster said that an accused person was entitled to the benefit of any reasonable doubt.

Yesterday's hearing in a packed courtroom lasted from 10.30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Defending Mr. Howard was Senator J. W. de B. Farris, who told the court he was compelled to keep a close schedule, as he was going to England to appear before the Privy Council.

In the February trial the court was told that Mr. Howard was representing Douglas John Nelson, who was pleading not guilty. There was a dispute with the court about proceeding without Nelson present.

Crown witnesses said yesterday that Mr. Howard had assured the court that Douglas Nelson would be in court later.

The case proceeded and Nelson's brother, Leslie, came into court and seated himself at the rear of the room with Douglas Nelson's wife. He wore horn-rimmed glasses, carried a taxi driver's cap, and allegedly impersonated Douglas Nelson.

Two police officers identified Leslie as the man from whom they had bought the bottle.

S. S. Cunliffe, QC, appearing for the Crown, yesterday, argued that it was Howard's duty as an officer of the court to inform the magistrate, Col. A. C. Sutton, that the man represented as the accused was merely a spectator.

Judge Sullivan ruled that the man was perfectly entitled to come into the court dressed as he was and to take his place in the spectators' seats.

NOT ON STAND

Howard did not take the stand yesterday, and this was noted by Mr. Cunliffe.

"Are you arguing that because Mr. Howard did not take the stand in his defense, I am to find him guilty?" asked the judge.

Mr. Cunliffe assured him that this was not his point at all.
